Dedicated to the reason why the Legend is published:

The world today, more than ever, is in need of service, leadership, mental advancement, physical vigor. It needs a better relationship among human beings; constructive, progressive endeavors; and fair play. Students, in a world of their own at North Side, are being educated and guided in these qualities, so that upon graduation they can make the world a little better place in which to live. The Legend is put forth to show to the world by means of pictures this symphony of harmony and good will being developed among the students of North Side.

"FONDEST MEMORIES . . . OF THE GOLDEN DAYS OF SPRING"

A PANORAMA OF CHEERFUL SCHOOL LIFE AT NOON HOUR

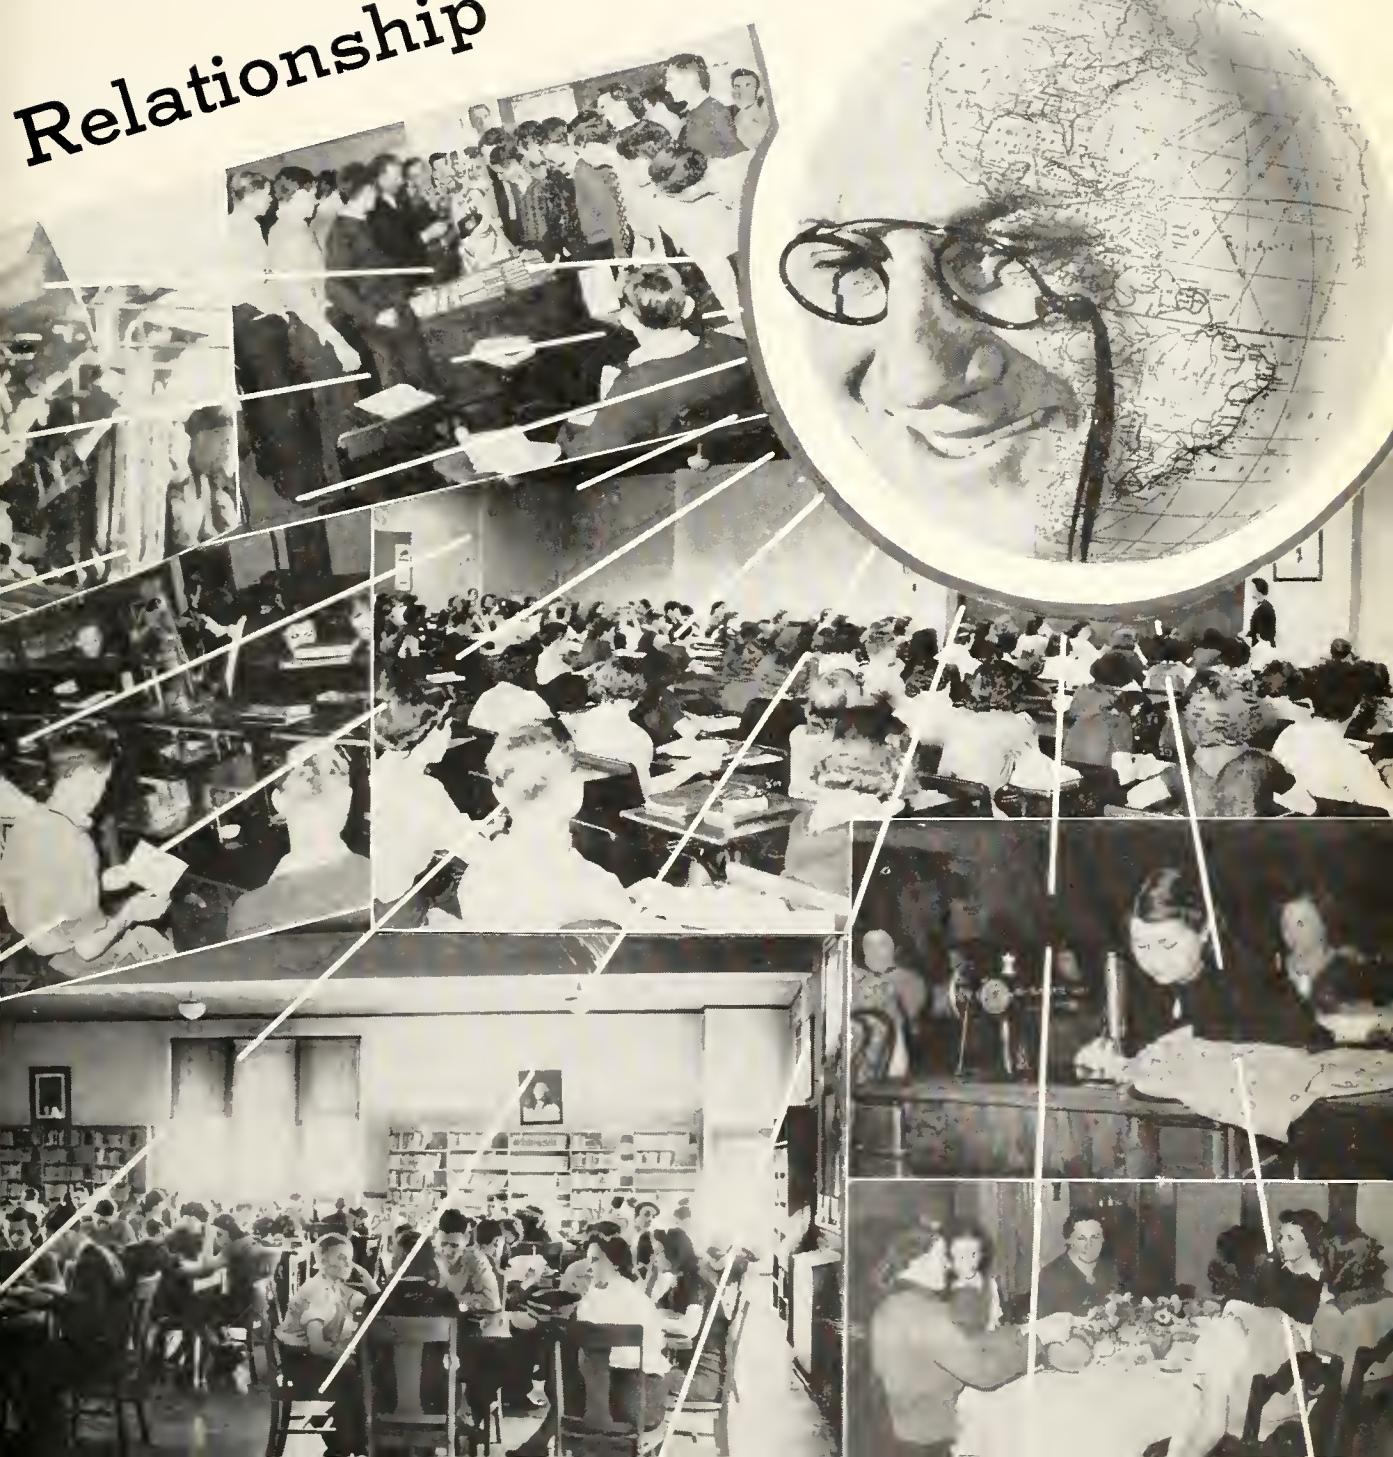

In the classroom is the student given the necessary training and knowledge for future living. North Side offers academic training for those who wish to enter higher schools of learning, and vocational experience, educational fundamentals, and cultural background for those who plan to enter upon their livelihood following graduation.

Better Human

Relationship

RIGHT KIND OF LEADERSHIP DEVELOPED

The growth, happiness, and development of any group or community depends upon leadership of the right kind. This statement holds true for a high school just as it does for any other society. As leadership is dependent, first of all, upon knowledge, the primary function of our school is to assist young people in acquiring that information which society has found to be essential.

With this knowledge as a basis, we seek next the other qualities we consider necessary for leadership. We find that a leader must have originality, initiative, personality, self-confidence, and the ability to get along with his associates. No place offers a better training ground for leadership than the modern secondary school. Here are found nearly all the problems to be found in any society, and here, then, is the laboratory in which leaders receive their training.

All the factors mentioned above are given due recognition, and boys and girls who have qualities of leadership gradually begin to assert themselves, some in one field and some in another, but all have the opportunity to grow and to develop.

Experience has shown that this training in leadership carries over into life after high school days are ended. Thus it is that our city, our state, and our nation are directly and vitally affected by what our young folks accomplish in high school.

—MILTON H. NORTHROP

HIGH SCHOOL IS A CHALLENGE TO YOUTH

The modern high school life today offers more than a preparation for life; it really is life. So we do more than theorize on the fact that the pupils in schools today will be the citizens of tomorrow; we try to give actual practice in being a good citizen. Through the class room the modern high school citizen gets his foundation, his background, his knowledge, and his theory; through participation in activities he develops those qualities of good followership, leadership, initiative, cooperation, and service so essential for the successful functioning of a true democracy.

The world to a high school citizen is not small and insignificant, but, rather, important and challenging. He has become familiar with many of its aspects, its obligations, and its duties.

And so we say to these high school citizens:

If then, we have given you some inspiration to go and meet this challenge, to make the world a better place than you found it, we shall be glad. You have learned that the development of your own character, intellect, and personality is of paramount importance in bringing about growth and improvement of a group and you have also learned to appreciate and evaluate the qualities you desire in your leaders. And what is more, as high school citizens you have shown good judgment in the selection of your leaders. For continued progress the world needs good leaders. It is our sincere hope that you continue to do your share in furthering the progress of this, your world.

THE LEGEND 1938

HIGH SCHOOL IS A WORLD OF ITS OWN

The present day high school is the greatest privilege many of our young people will have while in their training period. There have been many situations arise during recent years which concerned all of us because of our deep interest in our high schools. The result, however, of planning for the long span of life rather than the emergencies of the present is a splendid, coordinated program. The diversified courses, the broader curricula, and the useful activity programs all tend to give every boy and girl an opportunity.

We strive to increase holding power and cultivate greater specific interests through the stimulation of ambitions and security appeals. We find a great need for better industrial training, more careful guidance and placement, and a greater degree of respect for real work. It is our purpose to direct a helpful program so that our young people will have a keen desire to make a contribution to the social, economic, family, and civic life in our city.

There are also great needs to be served in providing for the cultural necessities, the leisure time enjoyments, and support to the ideals of our government.

We are furnishing a participating, contributing type of education through extra curricular activities related to actual living.

There is a leadership to develop and a followership to train. The high school of today is doing both with more and more success. We are striving also to cultivate ideals and attitudes that will endure and function. The scope is all embracing both from standpoints of content of subject matter and opportunity for resultant leadership.

Parents Aid Children In Home And School

BY LOUISE HESSERT

Due consideration should be given to our elders, who, gathered together in the North Side Parent-Teacher Association, make school life their business. This group unites two distinct peoples, our guardians and our instructors.

The organization, besides taking a general interest in all school activities, lends financial aid for the realization of school projects and for the solution of school problems.

This guild of guiders has completed its yearly program which consisted of varied interests.

The first big assemblage was the annual Back-to-School Night held November 15 when parents reviewed the daily life of their offsprings and became acquainted with the school in general. A successful membership campaign was held the same evening.

Early in December Mrs. Roscoe Shambaugh and Mrs. Clayton Braunagel took charge of the music division rummage sale.

On December 15 Santa Claus dropped in on the P.T. A. meeting. Other interests of the Christmas party were the Franklin Mothers' Chorus and pictures of the western trip taken by several teachers last summer and shown by Miss Marian Bash.

Mrs. Doster Buckner led a symposium on January 12. Some of the topics of the meeting were: "Are We Expecting Too Much of Our Children in 1938?" given by Mrs. Basil Needham; "Do Our Children Keep Too Late An Hour?—Remedies," Mrs. Walter G. Andrews; "What This Organization Means to Me As a Parent," Mrs. James Kirwin.

A card party was held in the cafeteria on February 28 with Mrs. Allan Wiseley serving as chairman. Mr. Howard Michaud acted as spokesman for the annual Men's Night, which was held on March 23.

One of the most interesting meetings of the season was that of April 20. Judge Harry Hilgerman spoke on "Juvenile Protection."

Two parties honored freshman mothers, and one held late in the spring was planned for senior mothers.

This year brought a new group to the Parent-Teacher Association, that of the study group which met every first and third Wednesday of each month to enter into deeper discussions of school life, home life, and the duties of each to the development of the child.

Mrs. Curt Stahn, 1937-38 president, proved to be an able leader. She had as her close assistants Mrs. Edward Schlegel, first vice-president; Mr. Howard Michaud, second vice-president; Mrs. E. J. Voirol, secretary; and Mrs. Carl Olson, treasurer.

TEACHERS TACKLE TRYING TASKS TACTFULLY

BY DOROTHY NIETER

Some fifty-two persons comprise the faculty of North Side. These instructors, however, do not devote their entire time to classroom duties. Many of them act as advisers for clubs and class organizations in school.

In 311 and 313 we find Miss Gertrude Zook and Miss Bernice Sinclair teaching Art and supervising the Art Club. Miss Bertha Nelson teaches French; Miss Judith Bowen and Miss Loraine Foster, Latin; and Miss Marie Ehle, German. Miss Bowen is Junior class adviser and a Booster helper. Miss Foster, freshman class adviser, and Miss Ehle enjoy Girl Reserve work.

Mrs. John Chapman, Miss Oral Furst, Mr. Leslie Reeves, Mr. Elvin Eyster, Mr. John Mertes, and Mr. Ralph Hite are the instructors in the commercial department. Miss Furst boosts North Side mightily, while Mrs. Chapman administers Junior Red Cross first aid. Mr. Reeves is one of the Hi-Y advisers. Dispersing and collecting money and guidance work occupy every spare moment of Mr. Eyster. The used book store is under the supervision of Mr. John Mertes.

Mr. Varner Chance has charge of all the music classes and activities and Miss Ethel Shroyer is the librarian.

Miss Marian Bash, Miss Hazel Plummer, Miss Katherine Rothenberger, Mr. Merton Kimes, Mr. Dave Hartley, Mr. John De Long, Mr. Robert Sinks, and Mr. Rollo Mosher are members of the Upper left—Science department: Miss Vesta Thompson, sitting, Mr. Frederick Breeze, Mr. Rolla Chambers, Mr. Howard Michaud, Mr. Harold Thomas.

Center—Art: Miss Gertrude Zook, Miss Bernice Sinclair.

Lower left—Commercial department: Mr. Ralph Hite, Mr. Leslie Reeves, Mr. Elvin Eyster, Mr. John Mertes, Miss Oral Furst, Mrs. John Chapman.

social science department. Miss Plummer and Miss Rothenberger advise Booster members; Mr. Mosher and Miss Rothenberger are the "big chief and squaw" for the Senior class. Miss Bash is constantly seen carrying a camera or snapping a picture. The Leaders' Tournament is in charge of Mr. Sinks, while Mr. Hartley advises Hi-Y. Mr. DeLong is well-known as athletic manager.

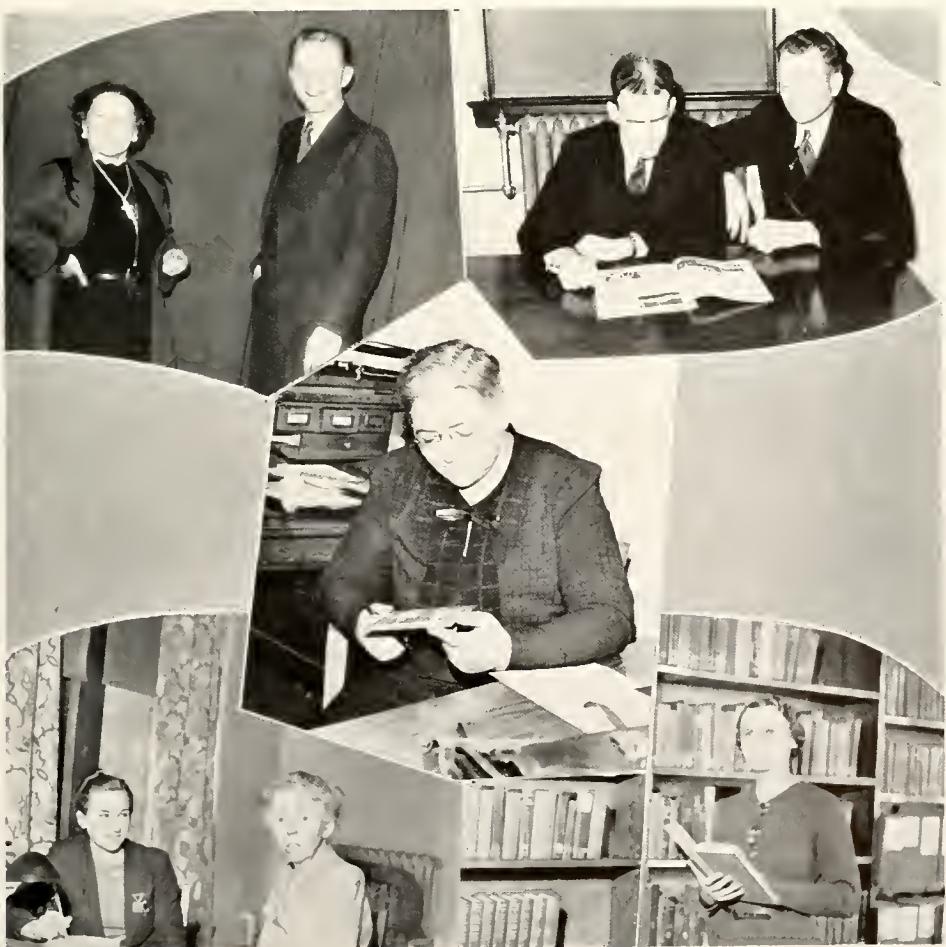

Laboratory sciences, botany, biology, physics, and chemistry, are taught by Miss Vesta Thompson, Mr. Howard Michaud, Mr. Rolla Chambers, and Mr. Harold Thomas. Studying Nature occupies the spare moments of Miss Thompson and Mr. Michaud. North Side's track mentor is Mr. Chambers. Mr. Thomas guides Phy-Chem-ists and also the Freshies.

Home Economics classes are taught by Miss Agnes Pate, Miss Martha Beierlein, and Miss Laurinda De Vilbiss. These cooks and seamstresses are also sponsors of Home Ec Club.

The instructors of English are Miss Plummer, Miss Catherine Cleary, Miss Geneva Burwell, Miss Mildred Huffman, Miss Mabel Greenwalt, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Sinclair, Miss Julia Storr, Mrs. Edith Winslow, Mr. Charles Dickinson, and Mr. Loy C. Laney. Miss Cleary and Miss Greenwalt are advisers of Red Cross, while Polar-Y interests Miss Burwell. Helicon is in charge of Miss Huffman and Mrs. Winslow. National and Junior Forensic and Juniors are favorites of Mr. Laney. Members of the National Honor Society and also Quill Club have Mr. Dickinson as their aid. Miss Howard assists with underclass declamation work.

Algebra, geometry, and trigonometry are pets of Mr. Everett Pennington, Miss Venette Sites, Mr. Glen Gordy, Miss Marie Miller, and Mrs. Ella B. Clark. "Why were you absent yesterday?" asks Mrs. Clark, attendance and study hall supervisor. Every semester in room 111 Mr. Pennington sells new books. Assisting philatelists delights Miss Miller, while acting as treasurer of National Honor keeps Miss Sites busy.

Exercise, we all need it, don't we? Well, Miss Carrie Snively, Miss Margaret Spiegel, Mr. Hyrle Ivy, and Mr. Robert Nulf will teach you calisthenics anytime you desire. Mr. Ivy is boys' swimming coach and chief rifle man. Miss Spiegel plans the social calendar for the Sophomores and also is adviser for G. A. A., Student Leaders' and Archery Clubs. Basketball and football teams of North Side are coached by Mr. Nulf.

Miss Suter is at the helm of the S. P. C., while

Lower Right: English Department. Mr. Loy C. Laney, Miss Geneva Burwell, Mrs. Edith Winslow, Miss Catherine Cleary, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Julia Storr, Miss Hazel Plummer, Miss Bernice Sinclair, Miss Mabel Greenwalt, Miss Mildred Huffman, Mr. Charles Dickinson.

The Northerner, The Legend, the 1500 Club, and Quill and Scroll are guided by Miss Harvey.

Industrial Art classes are taught by Mr. Tourist Thompson, Mr. Rutherford Smuts, Mr. Eldon Schellschmidt. The newly-formed Archery Club is headed by Mr. Thompson.

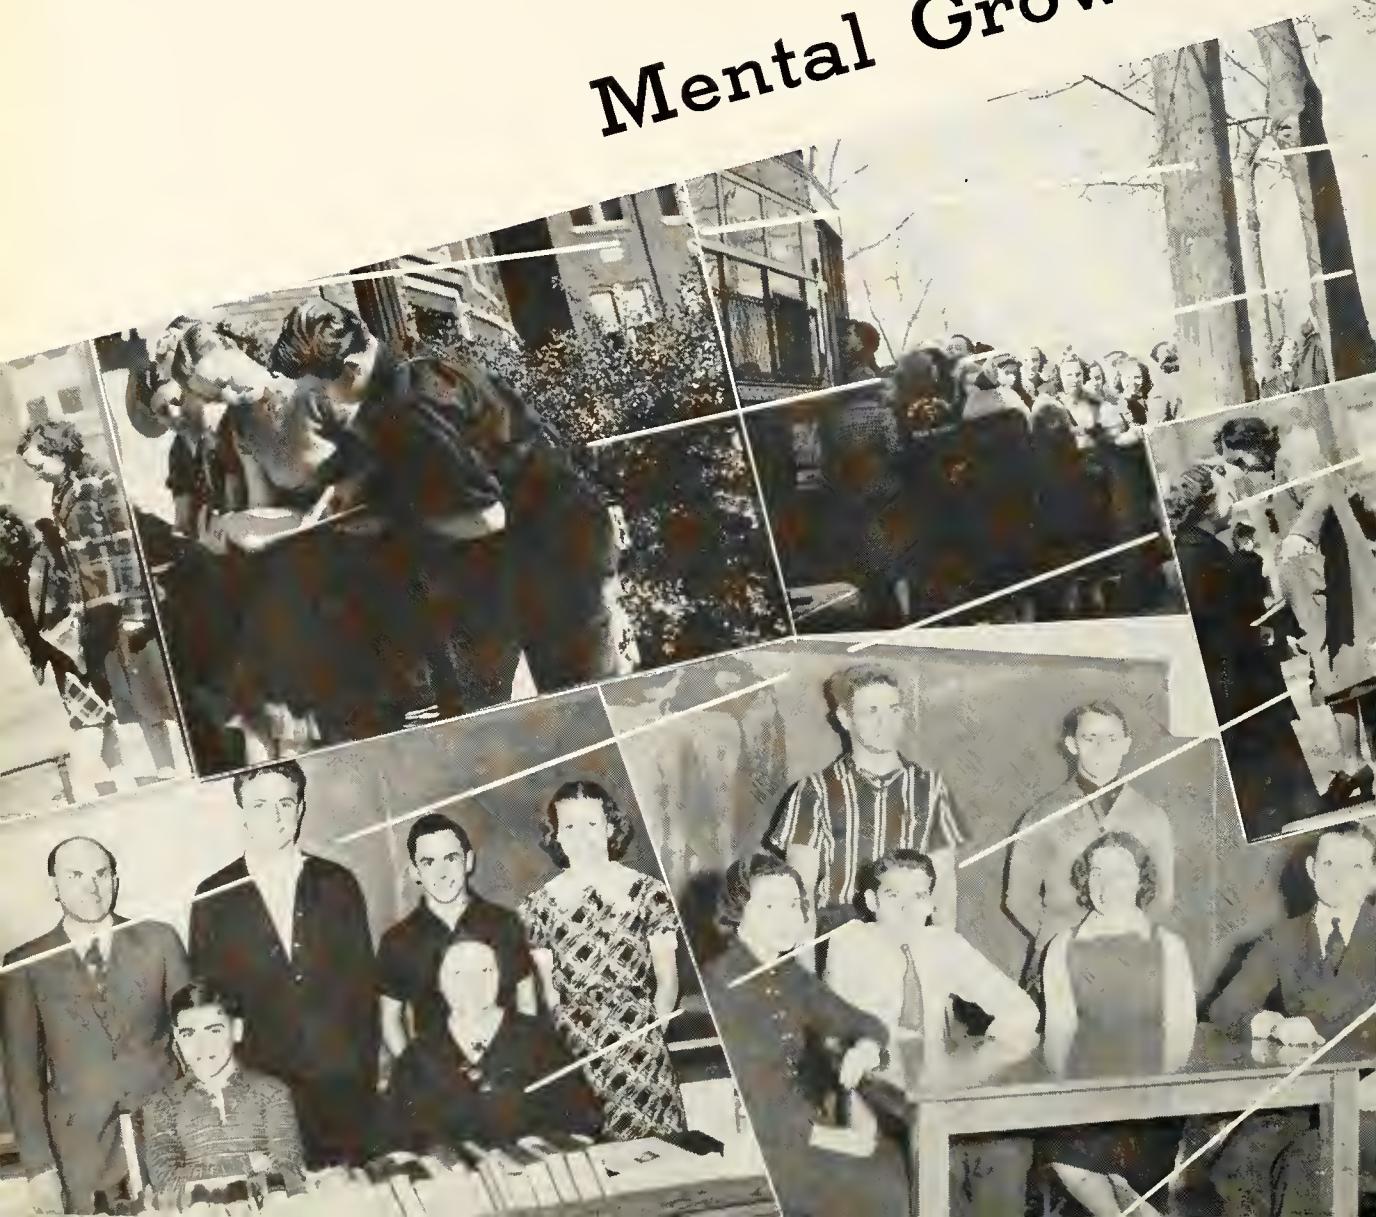

Last but not least we end our journey at room 213 where Mr. Fred Breeze instructs geography classes. He is also adviser of the Geography Council.

THESE PILLARS WILL BRING US SAFELY THROUGH

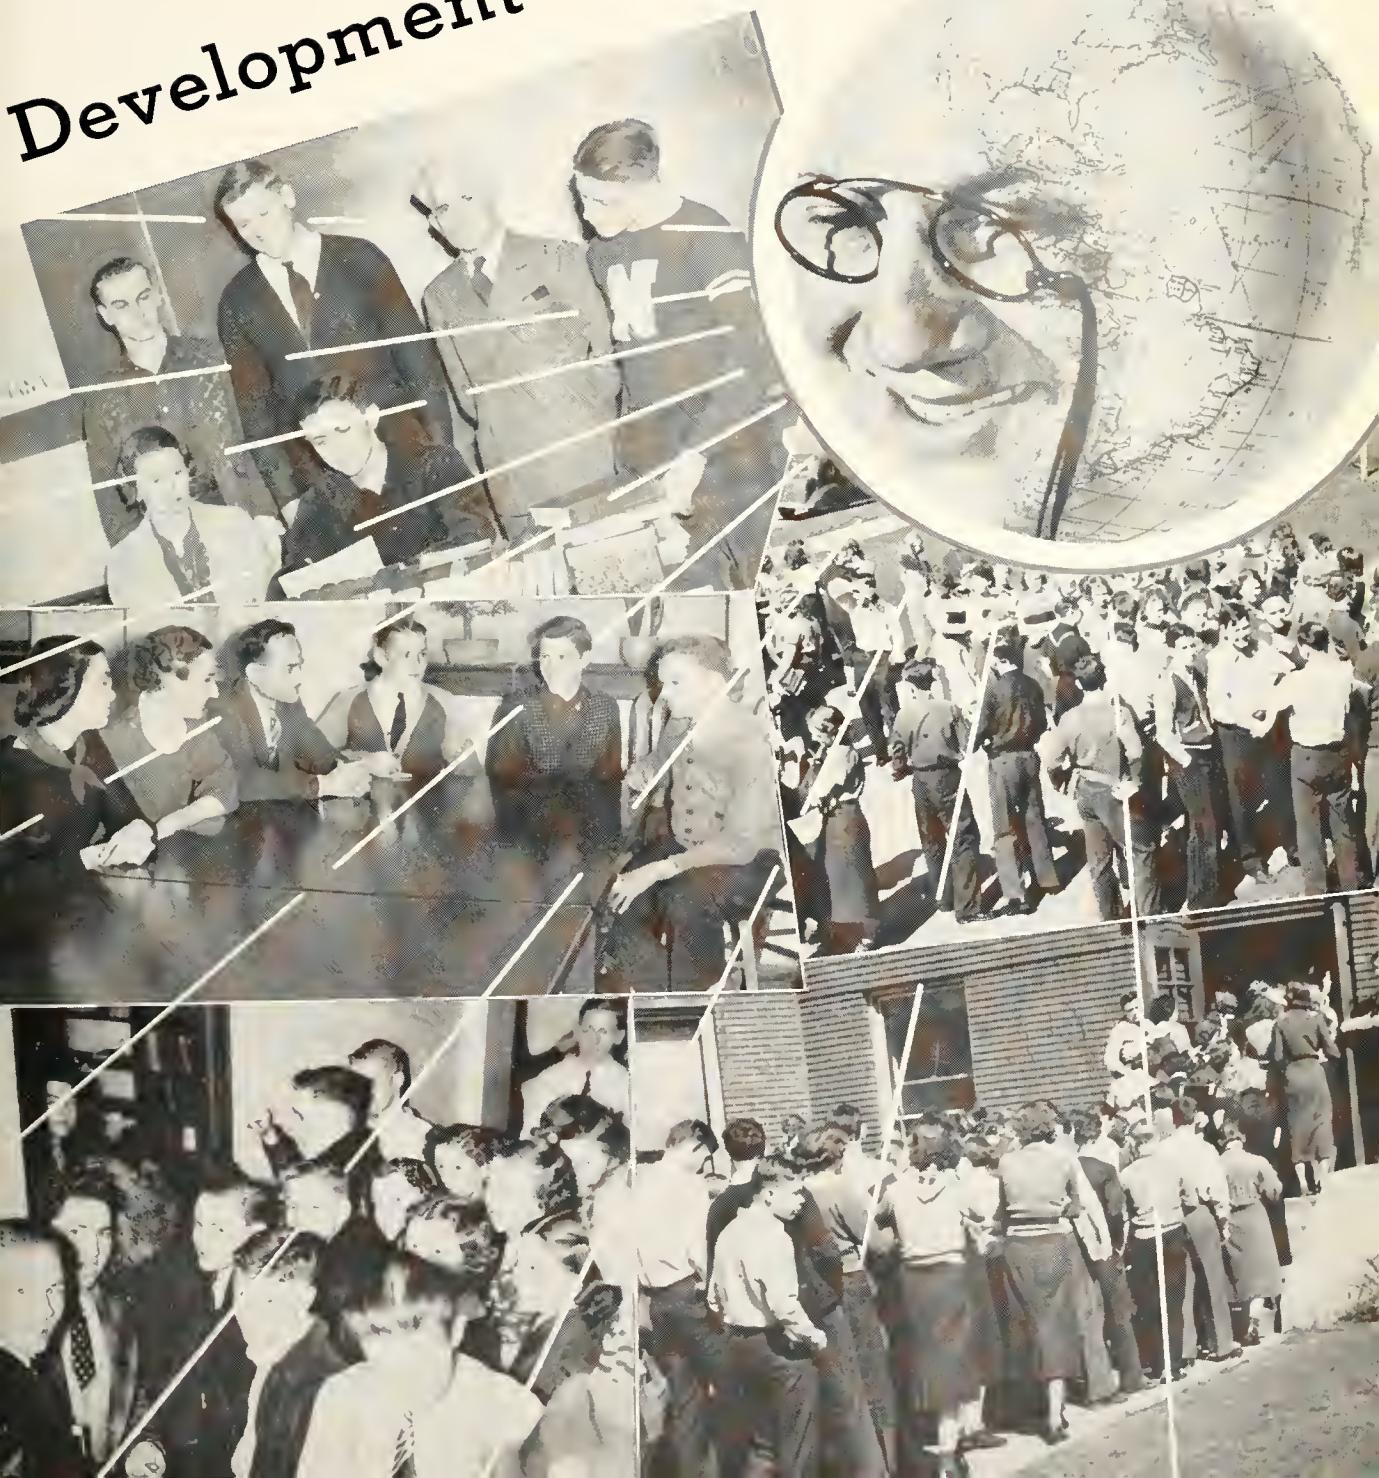

The individual class is the all-enveloping organization which develops and encourages in the student loyalty to one's own organization, cooperation, leadership, followership, and the ability to get along with other people--qualities all necessary for a successful living in a community.

Mental Growth and Development

A last glimpse at North Side before we leave it.

Sitting on the grass so daintily are Stan Munger and Katharine Crofts. Besides starring in photography and track, Stan also finds time to be Senior secretary-treasurer. Katharine, our star debater and extemp speaker, is very skillful with the pen for Ripples and The Northerner.

The three bonnie lasses are Bette Boone, Bonnie Ben Dure and Vivian Walborn, prominent Polar-Y'ers. Betty is active in National Forensic League, while Bonnie and Viv belong to G. A. A.

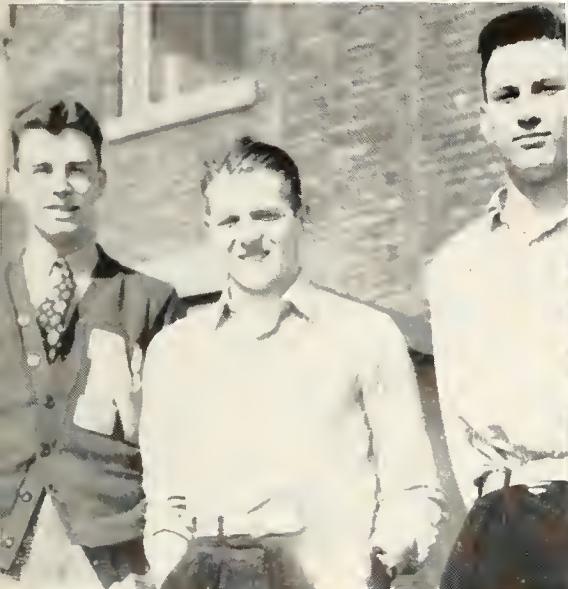

Four loyal Student Council members are Dick Urbine, Joan Hueber, Gertrude Jaehn, and Karl Rahdert. Dick and Joan are quite the orators. Gertrude spent many hours editing The Legend.

and also was an inhabitant of the girls' gym. Karl, Senior social chairman, is also president of National Honor Society.

Climbing the flagpole is Ellison Meier, North Side's leading man in the Senior Play, while leaning on him is Ray Racine, former publisher of The Northerner. Both boys are active in Phy-Chem.

Shoulder to shoulder are Louise Hessert, Northerner publisher and scholar, and Kent Nitz, Phy-Chem prexy and Northerner maker-upper.

Two charming misses watch for the "birdie." Publishing a very successful Northerner proved Pauline Fortriede's greatest achievement. The stage and its ups and downs allured Marjorie Kronmiller.

One, two, three smiles meet our attention in the faces of Kathleen Closs, Phyllis North and Dorothy Nieter. The young petite leading lady of "Boomerang" was Katie. "My friends!" Phyllis begins before making that important impression on the debate judges, when she wasn't managing business affairs for The Legend. Dorothy is the shy little publisher of The Northerner, who also expends her excess energy on The Legend.

Ho hum. Another case of spring fever. Bob Shambaugh is the Paderewski of the violin. Even the versatile class president, Jim Walley, finds life a bit boring after all.

Three big athletes strut their stuff off the fields. Need we waste words when that big letter of Dick Fruechtenicht's peeps out? Ed Boedeker has proved that athletics and activities mix. Those eyes of Carl Gunkler's seem to be gaging the distance from the ball to the basket.

Again we find four outstanding "N" wearers sitting on the front steps of the tepee and looking casually upon the world. Carl Gunkler, Richard Freuchtenicht, George Golden and Ed Boedeker made many downs as well as baskets.

THE REASON FOR IT ALL: THE LEGEND STAFF

BY PAULINE FORTRIEDE

They made this book, that's what they did.

Numbering two score plus, the members of the 1938 Legend staff spent an entire school year of extra-curricular time unpiling piled-up work.

Editor Gertrude Jaehn, schedules in one hand and more schedules in the other, rounded up people for pictures and stories, while other Legend editors spent spare moments and those intervening times between more Legend work bloodhounding for the yearbook executive.

Chiefly, the business staff, headed by Phyllis North, and the circulation department, executed by Kathleen Closs and Theodosia Field, assistant, built the backbone for the publication of the 1938 Legend. Obtaining eight hundred seventy subscriptions, passing the original goal of eight hundred, the circulation board strengthened the business department with large sums of shekels.

First Row, left to right: T. Field, K. Closs, P. Fortriede, P. Firestone, G. Jaehn, E. Kattell, L. Frank, P. North.

Second Row: Miss Harvey, P. Olofson, L. Hessert, J. Bane, S. Field, H. Hartnup, K. Crofts, B. Moorman.

Third Row: B. Heaston, J. Bixby, M. Fox, E. Meier, R. Racine, F. Prange, T. Kochendorfer, C. Parish.

Stanley Munger, the "Big Chief" photographer, and assistants Robert Moorman and James Bixby, worked hard to get unique and numerous shots of the student body.

In charge of assembling and collecting stories, Louise Hessert made light work of a heavy job and passed completed stories on to the copy editor, Pauline Fortriede.

The sports section was supervised by Ray Racine and his assistants were Bruce Oswald, William Miller, and Tony Kochendorfer.

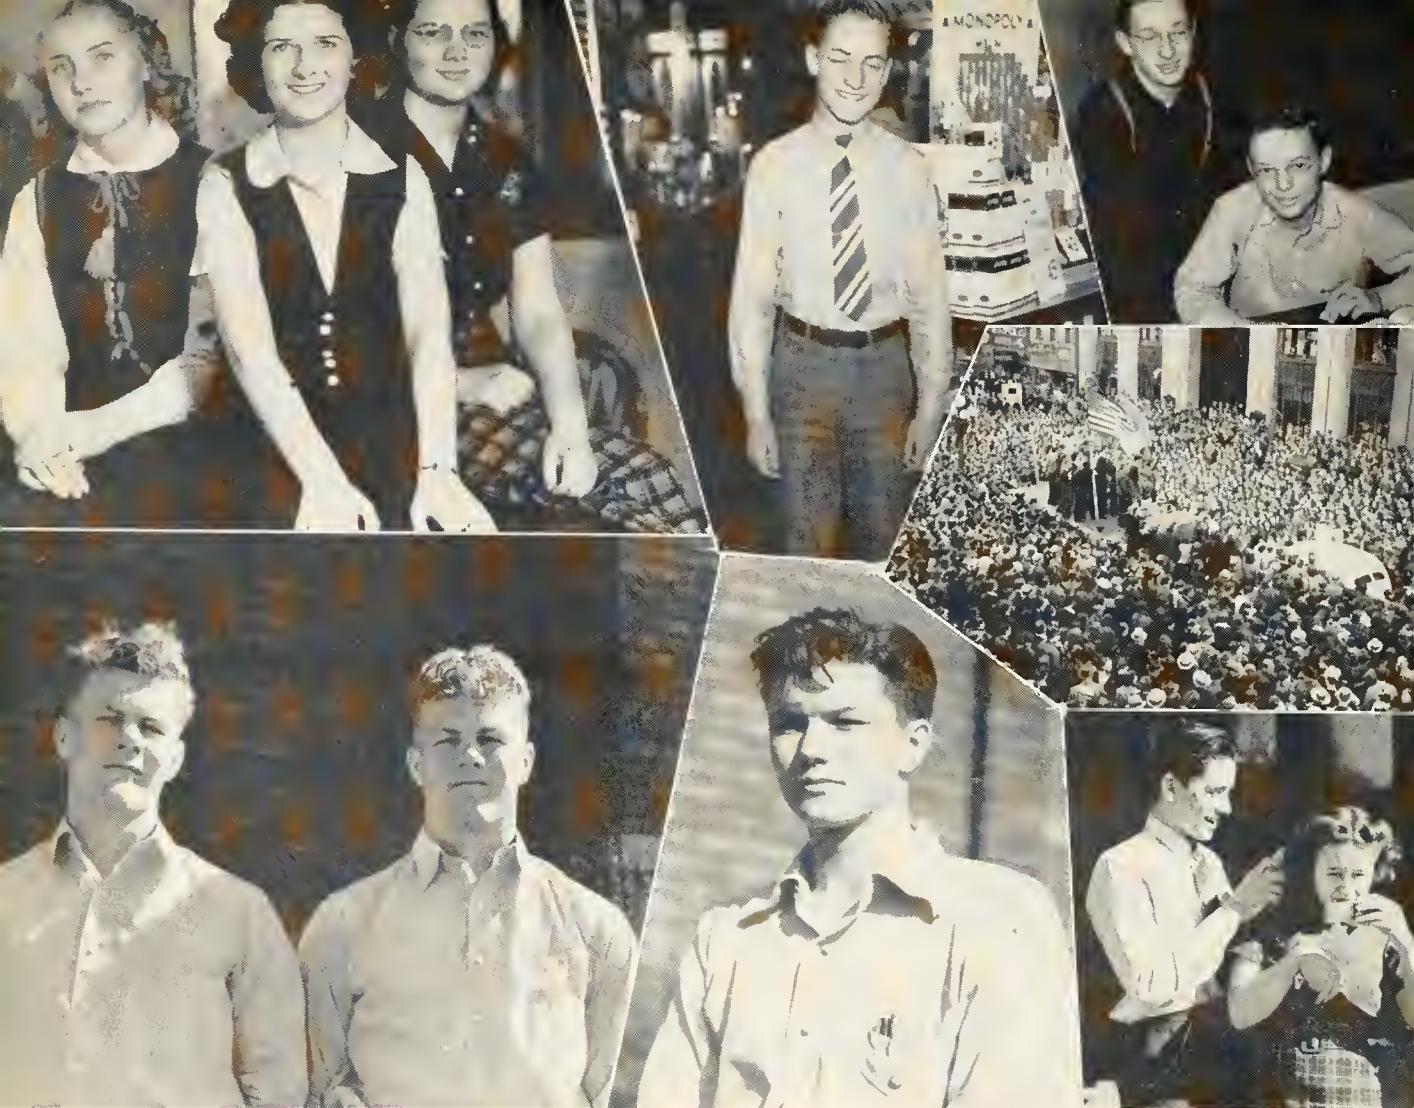

Dorothy Nieter, Katherine Crofts, Ellen Kattell, William Gerhard, Wanda Foster, and Shirley Field described the activities of the various classes.

Second Row: P. Fortriede, P. Firestone, J. Bane, V. Vanden Berg, V. Groth, J. Scott, J. Gordon.

Third Row: A. J. Byers, R. Bauerle, A. Crayton, K. Rahdert, R. Racine, M. J. Pitcher.

Upper left we see Marilyn Young and, hiding behind her, are Joan Curdes and Jean Scott. Marilyn's and Joan's main interests lie in speech work and dramatics. Jean concentrated her interests in The Northerner as news editor. Jean is also active in Helicon Club.

Dick (Sleepy) Bruick is seen two feet away from the magazine rack in Bruick's Drug Store, where he spends most of his time—in the drug store we mean. Dick showed his ability during his presidentship of Helicon Club in debating with his sidekick, Bob McConnell.

What, another sleeper! Behold Shelly Wagner and Tommy Suedhoff. Both contribute time and energy on the business end of The Northerner.

Get out the microscopes; here are the Turner twins. From where we're standing it's Gordon on the left and Gaylord on the right. Both boys proved their athletic ability on the track, stadium, and hardwood.

Lower center, we survey the serious mien of backwoodsman George Buckner, North Side's Marksman No. 1. His score very seldom deviates from the century mark.

In the lower right we see Omar Kenyon teasing Alice McGahey. Playboy Omar will be our Legend editor next year. He also exercises his dramatic talent. Alice is a combined journalist-public speaker.

In the upper left hand corner are three scholars as well as curricular leaders, Morrie Miller, Virginia Knox, and Bob Johnson. This trio was in the vanguard of Mr. Laney's troop of debaters. The upper middle photo shows the end of a pep session.

"Big Gun Sports Writer," Phil Olofson, is shown with one of the boys who figured quite prominently in his column, none other than Frank Werling. Phil shared an All-Columbia Award with Byron Heaston for the sports pages. Frank played ball on both the basketball and football varsity squads.

Lower left are two feminine major staff members of The Northerner, Ellen Kattell and Rose Steiber. Both girls were on the debating squad. Ellen is social chairman for her class. The center picture shows pupils entering the much-pushed doors of our exits. Middle right, we see the upper section of North Side.

Lower center, we see candid cameraman Jim Bixby and public speaker, Bob McConnell. Bob is also vice-president of Camera Club.

The four men claiming their share of the page in the lower right are Bill Swager, Clark Waterfall, Gene Hartman, and Everett Huth. Bill has made a name for himself in the great field of public speaking. Clark filled the position of secretary-treasurer. Eugene let his mighty voice quake those who assisted in the graveyard atmosphere at pep sessions. Everett managed to get in the first line-up on both basketball and football squads.

First Row: Jane Achenbach, Leonard Affolder, Marcia Agerter, Jean Albert, Dorothy Allman, Victor Allwardt, Marian Amsden, Ed Errington, Eileen Aughinbaugh, Bob Aumann.

Second: Juliana Bane, Suzanne Barnd, Al Bartholomew, Dorothy Bauer, John Beams, Virginia Beaty, Dorothy Becker, Virginia Berning, Paul Bracht, Lois Ruth Burns.

Third: Ronald Bishop, Jim Bixby, Lavon Blaising, Bonnie Blue, Josephine Blume, Jean Boyd, Herbert Brennan, Kate Briggs, George Buckner, Irene Buecker.

Fourth: Paul Bussing, Juanita Canfield, Eleanor Carroll, Mary Carkenord, Elsie Cater, Janet Clappert, Harry Collins, Bill Cowgill, Arthur Crayton, Ray Creager.

Fifth: Joan Curdes, Rufus Curry, Ray Danford, Ruth De Bolt, Virginia De Haven, David Dehnert, Ray Dotson, Pat Drennan, Madelyne Drewett, Vera Drewett.

JUNIORS REAP HONORS IN ALL UNDERTAKINGS

BY BILL GERHARD AND ELLEN KATTELL

Juniors we are in plain apparel;
 Watching the ostentatious gray-clads
 Leaving the home of bow and arrow,
 Relinquishing their pens and pads.
 Our place in line has advanced
 Step by step; now we are first;
 How impatiently in line we pranced,
 But now we have lost that thirst.
 Not long to wait, nosiree,
 Three short months, no more.
 It's our bridge across the sea
 Of the journey from Junior to Senior.

Another school year has been ripped off the calendar, and we find ourselves now ready to enter the last stage of the game. A good inheritance is ours. However, the next class, that of '40, will find it more difficult to maintain our loftily set standards than we did, we hope.

One of the first and very important events of the Junior Class year was the electing of their class leaders. Bob Johnson was chosen to the highest office of the class. Morrie Miller proved to be right-hand man as vice-president. Since the Junior year is the one for making money (through social events), the treasurer's position is quite important. Clark Waterfall has successfully engineered this office. Ellen Kattell was chosen by the class to be the social chairman.

The leaders were lucky in obtaining Mr. Loy C. Laney and Miss Judith Bowen as class advisers. Through their able assistance the class was able to conduct many successful affairs.

"Maytime Reverie" was the theme of, perhaps, the most completely and efficiently planned Junior Prom which has made its way through our history of ten years. Ellen Kattell acted in the capacity of chairman for the affair. The orchestra, as a novelty, was situated in the center of the gym. It was surrounded with bright lights of all colors and decorations so elaborate that they almost defy description. To liven this scene, the platform on which the orchestra played constantly revolved. The Seniors-to-be danced away the evening from 9 to 12 o'clock.

At the beginning of the year the Juniors won the first place in the G. A. A. Vod-Vil. Their skit, "The Little Redskin," was performed in the midst of elaborate surroundings. Wigwams, trees, campfire, and pottery made up the scenery. To further the Indian atmosphere, the characters wore Indian costumes and war paint. The Junior Class also sponsored "The Snowball" dance, which replenished their coffers. So much for the social affairs of our class.

In the great field of journalism we find most outstanding, Phil Olofson. Phil, co-sports editor, besides showing up the sports-writers of the State at the Franklin Conference, also was awarded the "All Columbian Award" for the Northerner's sport pages. Omar Kenyon, student adviser for The Northerner, has been appointed the editor of The Legend of '39. A good majority of the major staff members of the school paper were filled by Juniors this year, making it convenient for the '39 Northerner. Rose Steiber worked in the capacity of business manager; William Gerhard, editor; Jean Scott, news editor; Ellen Kattell, feature editor; ad copy writer, Tom Suedhoff; Sheldon Wagner, co-advertising manager; Dick Till, tie-up manager; and Vernon Englebrecht, credit manager.

The Juniors, this year, make up the bulk of the rifle team. George Buckner is the most prominent rifler on the squad. George's score very seldom deviates from the one followed by two zeros. Also behind the team pushing it into one of the best positions in the state are Eleanor Geiser, Victor Allwardt, Paul Baker, and Virginia Knox, all potential gunmen.

Jim Bixby rates a paragraph all to himself for his splendid work as chief electrician behind the footlights and also for his work as assistant photographer of The Legend.

We find that quite a few of our Juniors are great prospects as public speakers. Perhaps debating is one of the most interesting fields of speech. In this line Bob Johnson, Morrie Miller,

First Row: Lanky Dye, Vernon Englebrecht, Julia Falvy, Evelyn Figel, Marguerite Fisher, Anita Jane Fitch, Virginia Franke, Phyllis Friedly, Lester Frankenstein, Isobel Fraser.
 Second: Irene Gabersek, Jim Gardiner, Eleanor Geiser, Mary Jane Goehler, Virginia Graff, Delores Graham, Raymond Gran, K. Green, Otto Gunkler, Frieda Gunther.
 Third: Virginia Gutermuth, Doris Haines, Eugene Hartman, Mary Edith Harvey, Ruth Hattendorf, Walter Hayes, Gerald Hawk, Ellen Heidbrink, Jean Herrman, Delores Humbrecht.
 Fourth: Garnet Hutson, Everett Huth, Bob Irmscher, Keith James, Bob Johnson, Erwin Johnson, Marie Kahn, Ellen Kattell, Evelyn Kauffman, Helen Keenan.

and Bill Swager deserve the most credit since they were the prime factors in winning, for the first time in the history of North Side, the District Debate Tourney. Other Varsity debaters who competed until the first of March and who scored many victories for our Alma Mater are Dick Bruick, Bob McConnell, Rose Steiber, Alice McGahey, Marilyn Young, Virginia Knox, and Ellen Kattell. Charles Parish and Ray Creager also showed their ability as debaters. North Side is very proud to have a chapter of the National Forensic League, a national society for speakers. The Junior Class is equally proud to be represented in this honorary society by ten of its members: Virginia Knox, Rose Steiber, Alice McGahey, Marilyn Young, Ellen Kattell, Bob Johnson, Morrie Miller, Bill Swager, Dick Bruick, and Bob McConnell.

The Student Council this year contained the following Juniors: George Buckner, 213 and the Rifle Club; Ross Leakey, 220; Imogene Seibert, 231; Bob McConnell, 232; Evelyn Kauffman, 312; Robert Johnson, 314, and the Junior Class; Victor Allwardt, 322; Isobel Fraser, 334; Virginia

Knox, 336; Virginia Gutermuth, Home Ec; Rose Steiber, 1500 Club; Kate Briggs, 112; G. Turner, 211; and Don Shepherd, 210.

Figuring most prominent in the sports field are Everett Huth and Frank Werling. Both fellows played leading roles in the games of basketball and football. Huth also was on the track team, pushing the shot.

Ross Leakey takes the lead for Juniors in the track field. Ross set the record for the State cross-country run. Eugene Love is another Junior competing for honors. Shelly Wagner, Kay Green, Jimmy Hoopengardner, Gene Ray, Clark Waterfall, Don Kemp, Thurman Hill, Richard Russell, Fred Huber, and Bob Winner make up the bulk of the Juniors on the track team.

Among our Junior girls we find just as many athletes as are found in the group of boys.

The honor volleyball team, which spoke well for itself this year, was composed of: Virginia Steele, Elizabeth Ulrey, Irene Buecher, Violet Winebrenner, Margaret Wisman, Eleanor Geiser, Agnes Pender, Betty Krausz, Helen Koehler, Ruth DeBolt, and Gwen Parrish.

First Row: Betty Krausz, Bennie Krieg, Betty Lou LeFevre, Herbert Langer, Thurman Long, Loren Longardner, Helen Lord, Marguerite Malich, Bob Masters, Harold McComb.

Second: Bob McConnell, Virginia McCormick, Mary Jane McCrady, Alice McGahey, Betty McNutt, Chauncey Miller, Morrison Miller, Bob Mills, Marjorie Mitchell, Wallace Moorhead.

Third: Ruth Motz, Paul Mueller, Elmo Murrell, Kathrine Naugle, Margaret Neher, Betty Newman, Violet Nidlinger, Dorothy Newman, Margaret Norman, Evelyn O'Day.

Fourth: Shirlie Olmstead, Paul Olson, Charles Osborn, Maxine Oury, Maurice Papier, Charles Parish, Gwen Parrish, Alice Parker, Doris Parker, Agnes Pender.

Fourth: Patti Pfeiffer, Kathryn Phillips, Evelyn Pinkus, Gene Place, Phillip Pallos, Pauline Poorman, Marjorie Pratt, Shirley Prentice, Paul Regedanz, Jean Rosselot.

First Row: Richard Russell, Arlene Sarman, Carl Scheibenberger, Jack Schele, Louis Schroeder, Louise Schwartz, Tillie Schwartz, Harold Schwartz, Jean Scott, Imogene Seibert.

Third: Rose Steiber, Bonnie Steinbacher, Ruth Stouder, Vincent Stouder, Evelyn Strupp, Marjorie Stucky, Tom Suedhoff, Eldred Smith, Dorothy Swick, Dick Till.

Fifth: Roberta Weaver, Fritz Wehrenberg, Dorothy White, Richard Wiegman, George Williamson, Mary Ellen Willy, Violet Winebrenner, Bob Winner, Margaret Wisman, Marilyn Young.

The two basketball teams that did equally as well were as follows: Virginia Gutermuth, captain; Irene Buecker, Kate Naugle, Pauline Poorman, Bonnie Steinbacher, Lillian Watkins, Dorothy Bauer, Marjorie Pratt, Mary Ellen Willy, Elizabeth Ulrey, Ruth Hattendorf, Mary Carkeenord; and Anita Fitch, captain; Eileen Aughinbaugh, Bessie Levin, Gwen Parrish, Marjorie Stucky, Violet Winebrenner, Kate Briggs, Peggy Wiseman, Shirley Prentice, Elsie Cater, Helen Koehler, and Louise Schwartz.

It seems that among our very capable girl athletes we have some rather efficient tennis players. The most prominent is Anita Fitch, who won the title of Junior Girls' Champion. Much credit is also due to Eleanor Geiser, who was the runner-upper and who gave Anita a lot of worry and competition.

In dramatics we find under the spotlight Ronald Bishop and Omar Kenyon, with Les Frankenstein commanding the boys behind the curtains.

The music department also seems to be a great attraction for prominent Juniors. Those belonging to the A Cappella Choir are as follows: Lois Ruth Burns, Virginia McCormick, Pat Pfeiffer, Arlene Sarman, Betty Stickley, Radeen Vodermark, Betty Lou LeFevre, Keith Riley, and Eldred Smith.

Those in the band are Homer Jackson, Paul Baker, Paul Olson, Max Tinkle, Don Harrington, Bill Sexton, and Harry Roebuck.

The orchestra claims Juliana Bane, Dick Bauerle, Charles Parish, Rose Steiber, Paul Bracht, Pat Pfeiffer, Robert Weeks, Vincent Stouder, Paul Olson, and Homer Jackson.

Richard Bauerle, by virtue of solos and duets on his beloved violin, may be also commended.

Not to brag, not to be filling space with idle words, but considering its accomplishments from every angle, would you trade our class for another? We are prominent in Journalism, Speaking, Dramatics and Athletics. Could we ask for more? And with all this as a background can we not with a little more ertia and gusto make our class next year, our last year, the best of all best senior classes?

Let's try!

The three gazing mademoiselles are Fondah Shook, a leading Diana of the class; Anna Jane Byers, vice-president of the class, and Betty Pennington, active speaker and winner in the upper-bracket of the Frosh-Soph Declamation Contest.

Using the flagpole as a resting place are Marie Andrews and Wanda Foster. Marie is active in speech and dramatics while Wanda interests herself in the work of The Legend and The Northerner.

Don Dolan, hanging in a precarious manner from the ditto flagpole, trusts his delayed fall to Jim Thieme. Both are drawn by interest into stage work and drama, too.

One of the many toothsome morsels for photography from the State Championship celebration.

Still with bubbling energy, we carry you to the next page—

And find Dean Needham being informative with Betty Pridgeon regarding bulletins. Speech and dramatics spell extra-curricular for Betty, and Dean devotes valuable attention to class social activities as the secretary-treasurer of the Sophs and was highest room agent this spring.

The businessman-looking individual in top center position is friend Bob Gilberg, Student Council member and Booster aid.

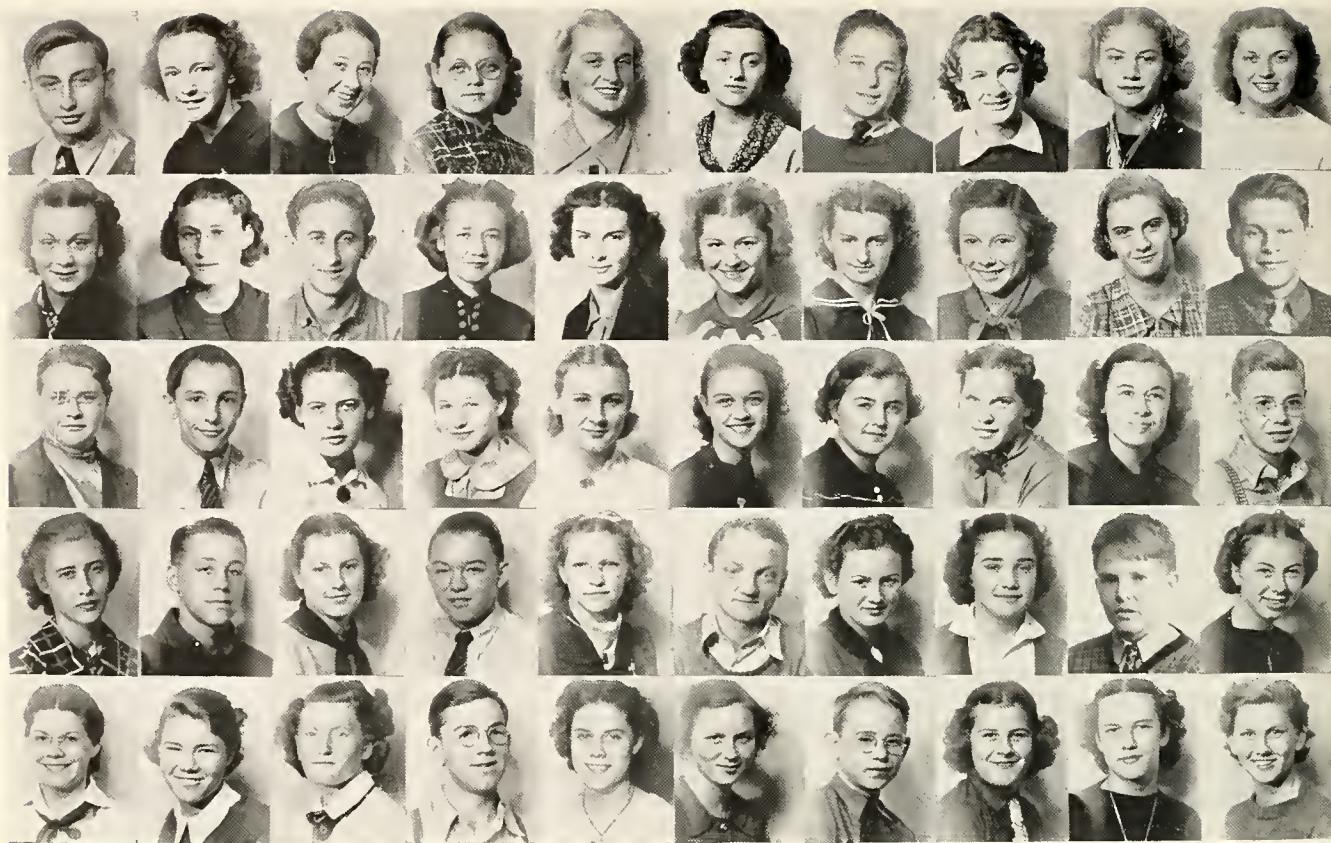

Petite, and we do mean petite, Nancy Elam should find smaller chairs, or does the large one indicate her ability as a hard and steady worker in the speech department?

Do you smile when you study? Neither do we, but these three, Shirley Helmuth, Kathryn Gerig, and Melvin Yocom have that capacity. Shirley contributes music in her curriculum, Kathryn adds ads (ouch) on The Northerner staff, and capably, too, while Melvin gives that certain deft touch to the plans of the social council of the Sophomore class.

They've just seen a young man go west, but why worry? Martha Dye, Helen Curdes, and Paula Bailey find more interest right here in the speech, Northerner and class social activities, and more speech.

A casual snap of the front steps allows you to supply your imagination and whatever names you want to the persons glimpsed on the portal entrance.

First Row: Paul Alleger, Rose Allen, Virginia Allisbaugh, Betty Altekruise, Laurabelle Anderson, Marie Andrews, Richard Aubrey, Marjorie Arnold, Paula Baily, June Barkley.

Second: Gerry Bartling, Marilyn Baughman, Eugene Bauer, Betsy Beard, Pat Becker, Marguerite Berning, Wilma Bland, Mildred Bobay, Jeanne Boegli, Ben Bosingier.

Third: Katherine Bowman, Franklin Bayha, Jean Brake, Dorothy Brecht, Madelyn Buchanan, Venite Bryie, Marian Buechner, Esther Buecker, Anna Jane Byer, Charles Campbell.

Fourth: Ruth Ann Christie, Herbert Chrzan, Jerry Clark, Charles Cleaver, Donna Cochran, Herman Conrad, Eloise Crosby, Helen Curdes, Neil Currie, Norma Dannenfelser.

Fifth: Betty DeWitt, Loretta Didier, Eileen Doerfler, Joe Draggo, Ludella Droege, Mary Jane Duff, George Dunten, Dee Dutcher, Martha Dye, Maxine Easterday.

PEPPY SOPHOMORES HAVE SUCCESSFUL YEAR

BY WANDA FOSTER

Guiding the Sophomore ship of state through many storms and a typhoon or two was Cap'n Charles Cleaver, president; Anna Jane Byers, vice-president and first mate; Dean Needham, second mate and secretary-treasurer; and Charles Thomas, chief cooker-upper of social activities. The assistant bottle washers were Wanda Foster and Melvin Yocom. The two gentle, guiding winds that helped carry the ship on a straight, successful course were Miss Margaret Spiegel and Mr. Howard Michaud.

The first meal served from the galley of Cook Thomas was the private party given in the middle of the year. Games were enjoyed in the early part of the evening, while two hours of dancing followed in the amusement course. The main course was the lunch served after a vigorous evening of dancing and games.

When it comes to rowing a boat, the Sophomores had plenty of "yumph" in their rowing arms. Their spirit guided some of the best activities of the year. After a freshman year of hesitating steps, they had opened their eyes and got "into the swing."

More pupils entered the music department. Franklin Bayha, Robert Edgar, Norman Getts, Ralph Heine, Betty Pennington, Earl Runkel, Max Shambaugh, Kathryn Walters, Donna Webber, Chester Cromwell, Robert Hoemig, Earl Lauber, Jeanne Boegli, Naomi Erb, Elizabeth Ginther, Shirley Helmuth, Helen Krohn, Robert Weeks, and Eileen Roth are members of either the orchestra, band, or A Cappella Choir.

The Northerner and The Legend drew the attention of Patricia Becker, Nancy Elam, Yvonne Foley, Wanda Foster, Peggy Johns, Kathryn Gerig, Dean Needham, Richard Roberts, Marilyn Smiley, Patricia Sparling, Helene Starke, Patricia Sweet, Donna Webber, Paula Bailey, Anna Jane Byers, Helen Curdes, Doris Kenyon and Billie Jean Krick.

Miss Margery Suter, dramatics instructor, enrolled in her dramatics classes Marie Andrews, Paula Bailey, June Barkley, Betsy Beard, Marguerite Berning, Charles Cleaver, Helen Curdes, George Dunten, Martha Dye, Betty Jane Egolf, Nancy Elam, Marguerite Fisher, Yvonne Foley, Jeanne Ford, Kathryn Gerig, Robert Hattersley, Wilma Meyers, Billie Jean Krick, Mary Jane Pitcher, Martha Pogue, Virginia Prentice, Betty Pridgeon, Phyllis Roeback, Thomas Russell, Patricia Sparling, James Thieme, Rosemary Voiro, and Melvin Yocom.

Always shining, the Sophomores were also attracted to the "speech is golden" group—the speech department. Members of the Junior Forensic League are Paula Bailey, Glendola Baker, Charles Cleaver, Warren Colby, Helen Curdes, Carl Hofer, Jackie Huguenard, Betty Kougel, Dean Needham, James Neff, Betty Pennington, Virginia Prentice, Fonda Shook, Marilyn Smiley, Patricia Sparling, Charles Thomas, and Melvin Yocom. The National Forensic League acquired Marie Andrews, Nancy Elam, and Betty Pridgeon.

First Row: James Eby, Betty Jane Egolf, Phyllis Elder, Naomi Erb, Neil Anderson, Bonnie Ervin, Magdalene Espich, Cornelius Feichter, Shirley Field, Yvonne Foley.

Second: Marian Fortriede, Wanda Foster, Jeannette Frie, Muriel Fry, Martha Gall, Kathryn Gerig, Norman Getts, Bob Gilberg, Howard Gooley, Marianna Gray.

Third: Bill Gresham, Fred Haak, Dick Hammett, Dick Hartnup, Bob Hattersley, Roland Helberg, Marguerite Heller, Shirley Helmuth, Roger Hiron, Margaret Hitzeman.

Fourth: Bob Hoenig, Carl Hofer, Eleanor Houghton, Evelyn Howard, Jackie Huguenard, Homer Jackson, Betty James, Ruth Jenkins, Peggy Johns, Mary Johnston.

Fifth: Ruth Johnston, Merl Keesler, Jack Keller, Mildred Keltsch, Mary Alice Kemp, Catherine Kempel, Marjorie Kennedy, Gene Kilty, William Klaehn, Betty Kougel.

The honor plaque, reserved for competition among the Sophomores went to home room 329, domain of Miss Bowen. This is the second time this home room has received the honorary scholarship award. The wizards calling this room "home" are Helen Curdes, Paul Alleger, Rose Allen, William Allen, Virginia Allisbaugh, Betty Altekruze, Laurabelle Anderson, George Archer, Mary Ellen Armstrong, Paula Bailey, Glendola Baker, Geraldine Bartling, Frances Bates, Eugene Bauer, Franklin Bayha, Betsy Beard, Eugene Beatty, Johanna Beltz, Maxine Benton, Robert Berhardt, Richard Berning, Jeanne Buecher, Dorothy Beyhan, Donnamay Pinkley, Maxine Blakely, Wilma Bland, Mildred Bobay, Jeanne Boegli, William Boese, and Wayne Boitit.

Student Council members from the Sophomore class were Marguerite Berning, Anna Jane Byers, Charles Cleaver, Warren Colby, Martha Dye, Kathryn Gerig, Robert Gilberg, Carl Hofer, Betty Kougel, Suzie Martin, Martha Pogue, Betty Pridgeon, Charles Thomas, Norbert Wyss, and Melvin Yocom.

The Polar-Y Club had many Sophomore girls as members. Among them were Marie Andrews, Rose Allen, Marjorie Arnold, Marguerite Berning, Jeanne Boegli, Madelyn Buchanan, Doris Buesching, Norma Dannenfelser, Eileen Doerfler, Jackie Huguenard, Elda Meyer, Betty Pridgeon, Helen Rogers, Dorothy Sauer, Lucille Sauer, Marilyn Smiley, Patricia Sparling, and Isabelle Wickizer.

Snapping pictures, candid and otherwise, were Virginia Allisbaugh, Edwin Ashley, Robert Bumpus, Edwin Cecil, Martha Pogue, Vernon Reed, Richard Wildermuth, and Betty Altekrule, secretary-treasurer of the Camera Club.

The Red Cross chapter acquired Jean Brake, Naomi Erb, Marian Fortriede, Catherine Kempel, Dorothy Mueller, Dorothy Sauer, Lucille Sauer, and Virginia Schaaf.

Boosting the school with all their youthful "wim and vigor" were Edwin Ashley, Paula Bailey, Betsy Beard, Patricia Becker, Jean Brake, Jerry Clark, Eloise Crosby, Helen Curdes, Norma Dannenfelser, Loretta Didier, Don Dolan, Martha Dye, Betty Jane Egolf, Nancy Elam, Naomi Erb, Yvonne Foley, James Thieme, Wanda Foster, Martha Jane Gall, Kathryn Gerig, Robert Gilberg, Marguerite Heller, Eleanor Pridgeon, Phyllis Roebuck, Eileen Ross, Jack Royse, Fondah

Yergens, Harold Eggeman, Doris Henschen, Jean Grant, Robert Ramp, Dorothy Sauer, Lucille Sauer, Margaret Smith, and Jackie Hugenard, secretary of the Art Club, were always on hand to paint the ship or anything else with artistic touches here and there.

The Etiquette Club, a new organization here, attracted many Sophomores. Betty Altekrule, Glendola Baker, Jeanne Boegli, Wilda Cochran, Martha Jane Gall, Marguerite Heller, June O'Brien, Dorothea Pickett, Alice Pierce, Vernon Reed, Dorothy Sauer, Lucille Sauer, Lillian Telle, Iva Jane Tonkel, Katherine Walters, and Donna Webber became members.

Sophomore Eleanor Houghton was president of the newly-organized Archery Club. Other second-year members were Richard Adams, Eugene Archer, June Barkley, Jean Brake, and Eloise Crosby.

Charles Campbell, Edwin Cecil, James Eby, James Neff, and President Ralph Heine and Secretary-Treasurer Robert Ramp engaged in the philatelic activities of the Stamp Club.

Interest in English literature and culture was expressed by Marie Andrews, Patricia Becker,

First Row: Mary Krouse, Kenneth Ladig, Robert Lagerstrom, Earl Lauber, Ralph Levin, Pierre Loughead, Eldridge Lynch, Tom McBride, Vivian McConnell, Betty McNally.

Second: Helen Madden, Marjorie Mallahan, Suzie Martin, Marie Marvel, Peggy Meek, Evelyn Metker, Elda Meyer, Arlene Miller, Irvin Miller, John Mishler.

Third: Dorothy Mueller, Wilma Myers, Dean Needham, James Neff, Luella Nelson, Billie Niswander, Fahma North, June O'Brien, Doris Oberlin, Bill Odier.

Fourth: Betty Oetting, Lois Olofson, Betty Overmeyer, Jean Parker, Don Parrot, James Passino, John Peed, Betty Pennington, Dorothea Pickett, Alice Pierce.

Fifth: Sylvester Pierre, Mary Jane Pitcher, Martha Pogue, Virginia Prentice, Bob Ramp, Kathleen Redding, Vernon Reed, Ronald Reynolds, Keith Riley, Marilyn Roberts.

Second: Wayne Shafter, Norman Schaefer, Mildred Scheiman, Bernice Schrock, Raymond Seaman, Max Shambaugh, Fondah Shook, Marie Schick, Virginia Sivits, Jenny Slater.

Third: Margaret Sloan, Marilyn Smiley, David Smith, Harold Smith, Pat Sparling, Helene Starke, Bill Stauffer, Betty Stickley, Ethel Stults, Albert Stute.

Fourth: Patty Sweet, George Teter, Jim Thieme, Betty Timmis, Bonnie Todd, Charles Thomas, Bob Tone, Ralph Ubelhoer, Marie Varnet, Rosemary Voirol.

Norma Dannenfelser, Virginia Prentice, and Isabelle Wickizer, through membership in the Helicon Club.

Betty Stickley is vice-president of the Geography Council. Several other Sophomore members were Marjorie Arnold, Elline Bowman, Robert Floyd, Peggy Meek, June O'Brien, Dorothy Pickett, and Helen Rogers.

The Northerner home room agents were Anna Jane Byers, Mary Jane Pitcher, William Stauffer, Patricia Becker, Helen Curdes, Patricia Sweet, Fondah Shook, Wanda Foster, Dean Needham, Marie Schick, Melvin Yocom, Richard Hartnup, and James Neff.

Athletic girls who made the volleyball team are Laurabelle Anderson, June Barkley, Marilyn Baughman, Katherine Bowman, Esther Buecker, Loretta Didier, Dee Dutcher, Maxine Easterday, Marguerite Fisher, Yvonne Foley, Wanda Foster, Martha Gall, Marguerite Heller, Eleanor Houghton, June Juday, Vera Knuth, Marjorie Mallahan, Peggy Meek, Wilma Meyers, Betty Overmeyer, Mary Jane Pitcher, Kathleen Redding, Virginia Schaaf, and Fondah Shook. Those who were interested in girls' tumbling were Dee Dutcher, Martha Joanne Gall, Marjorie Kennedy, Fondah Shook, and June Telley.

Marilyn Baughman, Katherine Bowman, Lois Cashdollar, Betty Pequignot, Jennie Slater, Mary Jane Duff, Muriel Fry, Wilma Meyers, Loretta Didier, Dee Dutcher, Marianna Gray, June Barkley, Esther Buecker, Eleanor Houghton, Betty Overmeyer, Kathleen Redding, Fondah Shook, Virginia Shaaf, Katherine Walters, Betty Kougel, Betty Cox, Wanda Foster, Eileen Roth, and Peggy Meek were on the several basketball teams entered by the Sophomores in the girls' championship tournament.

Some of the outstanding boys who went out for sports and will develop into future basketball, football, and track heroes are Jack Keller, Bob Gilberg, Ed Errington, Harold King, Dean Needham, Gene Riley, and Paul Baumgartner.

Miss Spiegel, a class adviser, made this statement concerning the Sophomore class: "The graduating class of 1940, now completing its second year's journey in North Side, has displayed its fine quality of leadership and talent in scholarship and various extra-curricular activities."

Three smiling girls appear individually in the upper left corner. First is Marilyn Whiteley, social chairman for the Freshmen. Beaming Betsy Dale cuts a promising figure in speech work as a member of the National Forensic League. Clarlyn Figel marches right through with gestures and things in the interest of the public speaking activities.

With downcast orbs (but very happy) Fahma North, Robert Cowan and Shirley Field read. Fahma makes The Northerner and speaking her foremost interests. Bob made an enviable record with nifty basketball handling, and he does a nice job of vice-presiding over the Freshmen. Shirley also enjoys athletics and journalism in extra-curricular time.

Once again, in the second row, there are three quite beaming damsels, Joy Ellen Stahn, Helen Jones, and Jeanette Leeper. Joy investigates debates and speech doings as a member of Junior Forensic. Helen proves her merit as a National Forensic League member. Jeanette strokes a mean crawl in the swimming pool and also does some Northerner soliciting.

This is the missing link in the Champ celebration downtown. Know any of the people?

Pleasant smile, what? Johnny Walker is behind it, and, conversely, he is in front of the Freshman class as president. Hi-Y attracts much of his extra-curricular time.

Very solemn about it all are Tom Brown and Charles Perrine in the upper left corner. Just for the moment, of course. Tom invests his time in pursuing rabbits. Charles spends his energy writing stories for publications. A speech winner, too, in the Freshman division of the annual Declamation contest is Charles.

He looks rather defiant, doesn't he? With arms crossed, Byron Popp devotes time and spirit to athletics.

Our nemesis and yours, too? Hoping for accuracy, we name them Mildred and Melba Heine and Jean and Jane Steinbacher. A nice quartette of dancing and athletic-minded girls.

Mounting the bridge, hands clasped, are Doris Jean Killian and Harriet Whonsettler. Doris' time in extra-curricular letters spells "speech." Harriet is another winner in the Frosh-Soph Declamation Contest. Music attracts her, too.

Happy about the whole thing? "Yes." That's the answer of Robert Jackson, left, secretary-treasurer for the Freshmen, and Norman Oetting, promising footballer, who make the portrait at center, bottom.

Lower right is the habitat of all these students, and a pretty nice one, according to the students.

First Row: Vernon Adams, Arthur Aiken, Betty Aker, Betty Armine, Marilyn Arick, Jean Arnold, Arlene Baltzle, Helen Becker, Harriet Beers, Jim Benninghoff.

Second: Helen Bitner, Melba Bitner, Claude Bobilya, Betty Lou Bohde, Bill Bower, Tom Brown, Mary Lou Bruggner, Norma Brumm, Irene Buechner, Gloria Burbank.

Third: Gerow Cabler, Ruth Ellen Callison, Maxine Carmer, Ruth Collins, Joan Closs, Bob Cowan, Claradell Cox, Betsy Dale, Betty David, Lloyd De Bolt.

Fourth: Dorothy Deitscher, Irene Denices, Maxine De Witt, Mayme Drake, Beth Draker, Virginia Drennan, Adeline Erb, Margaret Fellows, Clarlynn Figel, Carolyn Foley.

Fifth: Glenn Forst, Howard Fortmeyer, Jean France, Dorothy Frie, Helen Friedman, Jean Funk, Louann Gallmeier, Lucile Gallmeier, Gladys Geiger, Mildred Gibson.

WATCH OUT FOR UP-AND-COMING FRESHIES

BY SHIRLEY FIELD

Mr. Noah Webster defines the noun "freshman" as "full-of-strength, beginner." It seems that this definition is a completely suitable one for the Freshmen this year, 1938. We had to have strength in the early days when entering this institute because we were disillusioned of our beliefs in such things as "a fourth floor for seniors," "two swimming pools," and "only seniors have tickets for the elevator."

In December, the members of this class held an election to select class officers. John Walker, Robert Cowan, Robert Jackson, and Marilyn Whitely received the honors of being president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and chairman of the social council, respectively. These officers came to the conclusion that Miss Lorraine Foster, a Latin teacher, and Mr. Harold Thomas, a chemistry instructor, would be an excellent combination of advisers.

The first social event was the Freshman-Sophomore party held to acquaint members of one class with those of the other. Games and dancing were enjoyed throughout the entire evening. This gathering was very successful in attaining its purpose.

The speech department is flooded with talented freshman orators. Those freshmen that have obtained a sufficient number of points to gain membership in the honorary speech society, the National Forensic League, are Charles Perrine, Alice Ludwig, Clarlyn Figel, Betsy Dale, Margaret Ann Fellows, Gloria Burbank, Jeanne Ringle, Pat Thieme, Juanita Winner, Joy Ellen Stahn, Shirley Field, and Helen Jones. Members of the Junior Forensic are Virginia Groth, Joan Closs, Pattie Malone, Frances McGahey, Arthur Aiken, Jean Balcom, Martha Dell Bates, Ruth Beyer, Joan Buesching, Marjorie Dunlap, Lawrence Eberbach, Lucille Edsall, John Elam, Helen Franke, Bernard Frankenstein, Betty Gray, Robert Jackson, Barbara Morten, Thomas Neff, Robert Richard, John Rousseau, Robert Stahn, Jean Stiffler, Donald Swager, John Walborn, John Walker, and Miriam Waller.

The two "Y" clubs hold an attraction for many members of the Freshman class. Polar-Y enthusiasts are Betty Bauerle, Harriet Beers, Phyllis Boegli, Doris Heaston, Wilma Henner, Betty Lou Hilpert, Jane Hough, Betty Kohlenberg, Virginia Long, Iris McCoy, Mary Olinger, Mary Eileen Phillips, Jane Schafenacker, Maxine Stough, Miriam Waller, Joan Wehrenberg, Bertha Jean White, and Eileen Worden, while Hi-Y members are Ken Cummings, Jim Harrison, Darrell Heaston, Albert Johnston, and John Walker.

The beginners seem to enjoy the fine arts. Some artistic freshmen are Betty Lou Bohde, Doris Henschen, Betty Hosler, Martha Rose Ickes, Virginia Kelly, and Betty Jane Oberlin.

Music in the air wooed and won many frosh to the department of tunes. Those who take life "as a song" are Marilyn Arick, Betty Bauerle, William Bower, Maxine Carmer, Ross Cater, Don-

Joan Closs and June Nichter are the only yearling Home Economics Club members. Donald MacPherson and Pete Martin are members of the Nature and Stamp Clubs, respectively.

Writing and other work for The Northerner has caught the eye of Charles Perrine, Arthur Aiken, Martha Dell Bates, Robert Richard, Dorothy Kayser, Loraine Harries, Jeanette Leeper,

First Row: Rosemary Gnaau, Keith Green, Marcille Gross, Virginia Groth, Edward Haas, Loraine Harries, Jim Harrison, Darrell Heaston, Doris Heaston, Melba Heine.

Second: Mildred Heine, Doris Henschen, Pauline Hess, Jane Hoopengardner, Jane Hough, Jack Huber, Jack Humbrecht, Clyde Hunt, Pauline Hunt, Bob Jackson.

Third: Shirley Jackson, Helen Jones, Ruth Jones, Dorothy Kayser, Doris Jean Killian, Elvin Klingman, Hazel Koontz, Dean Krechbaum, Miriam Krieg, Lois Krouse.

Fourth: Melvin Lahrman, Royce Lano, Jeanette Leeper, Charlotte Lewis, Leo Ley, Joan Light, Ruth Linnemeier, Marjorie Lloyd, Virginia Long, Charles Lord.

Fifth: Alice Ludwig, Donald MacPherson, Kathryn McCormick, June McGill, Francis McGahey, Rita Mahlan, Pattie Malone, Ann Martin, Marcella Martin, Pete Martin.

Bernard Frankenstein, Marjorie Olofson, John Walborn, Joy Ellen Stahn, Fahma North, Margaret Ann Fellows, Shirley Field, Virginia Groth, Virginia VandenBerg, and William Gresham. Shirley Field is Freshman editor of The Legend.

The Freshmen elected Martha Dell Bates, Delores Carroll, Clara Dell Cox, Jeanette Leeper, Herman Moyer, Charles Perrine, Marilyn Roberts, Joy Ellen Stahn, Don Swager, James Hinga, Lucille Edsall, and Hugh Leisey to the Student Council.

Harriet Whonsettler was the winner of the Frosh Declamation contest. Other finalists were Betsy Dale, Charles Perrine, Gloria Burbank, Jeanne Ringle, and Doris Jean Killian.

William Stauffer joined the Rifle Club.

The Freshman class consists of many promising boy and girl athletes. Protege Robert Cowan matched pivots with the best varsity men in the Sectional Basketball Tourney in March. Other aspiring athletes are Cornelius Ervin, Jim Harrison, Herman Moyer, and Robert Worely. The members of the Girls' Athletic Association are Maxine Carmer, Shirley Field, Marjorie Guethe, Jean Arnold, Marilyn Arick, Viola Bandor, Betty Bauerle, ClaraDell Cox, Dorothy Frie, Mildred Heine, Doris Heaston, Helen Jones, Doris Killian, Mary Long, Ann Martin, Frances McGahey, Janet Oswald, Joyce Oswald, Eilen Parker, Opal Peters, Helen Poorman, Joy Ellen Stahn, Jane Steinbacher, Jean Steinbacher, Virginia Vanderberg, Joan Wehrenberg, Marilyn Whitely, Marjorie Wire, Phyllis Jane De Haven, Harriet Whonsettler, Melba Heine, Norma Brumm, Lucille Gallmeier, Jeanette Leeper, Ruth Linemeier, Frances Wood, and Marian Buechner.

The freshman girls who were on the freshman baseball team were Mildred Heine, Phyllis De Haven, Marilyn Whitely, Dorothy Frie, Patty Kintz, Marjorie Lloyd, Betty Bauerle, Charlotte

The following girls of our freshman class seem to be quite interested in basketball: A team—Helen Jones, captain, Marilyn Arick, Dorothy Frie, Shirley Field, Ruth Linnemeier, Doris Killian, Jane Evans, Eileen Meyers, Jane Steinbacher, Patricia Kintz; B team—Clara Dell Cox, captain, Jean Arnold, Marjorie Guethe, Rosemary Gnau, Melba Heine, Jeanette Leeper, Mary Long, Ellen Parker, Mildred Heine, Louann Gallmeier, Marilyn Whitely, Norma Brumm, and Phyllis De Haven.

The freshman party, last main social event of the year, was held in the cafeteria on April 1. Marilyn Whitely was in charge of the general arrangements for this "Freshman Downpour."

Under her direction serving as chairmen of the various committees were Betsy Dale, Margaret Ann Fellows, Jim Benninghoff, John Williamson, Harriet Whonsettler, and Doris Jean Killian.

Miss Foster says, "The class which will graduate in 1941 is outstanding in leadership. Even now, in their Freshman year, they are making themselves felt in school life and school activity.

"They have splendid possibilities of scholastic attainment and are showing a proper attitude toward the school as a whole. It is the sincere desire of the group at all time to uphold the ideals of North Side, to be worthy citizens during their four years here, and to be counted among those who are aspiring to be of service to their alma mater."

"The present Freshman class," says Mr. Thomas, "is one of great promise. In conduct, industry, reliability, and the many other qualities that go to make up good citizens of any community, school, or otherwise, this class is unusual. The freshmen, as young papooses, are setting an example worthy of emulation by others. It is a pleasure to plan and work with them."

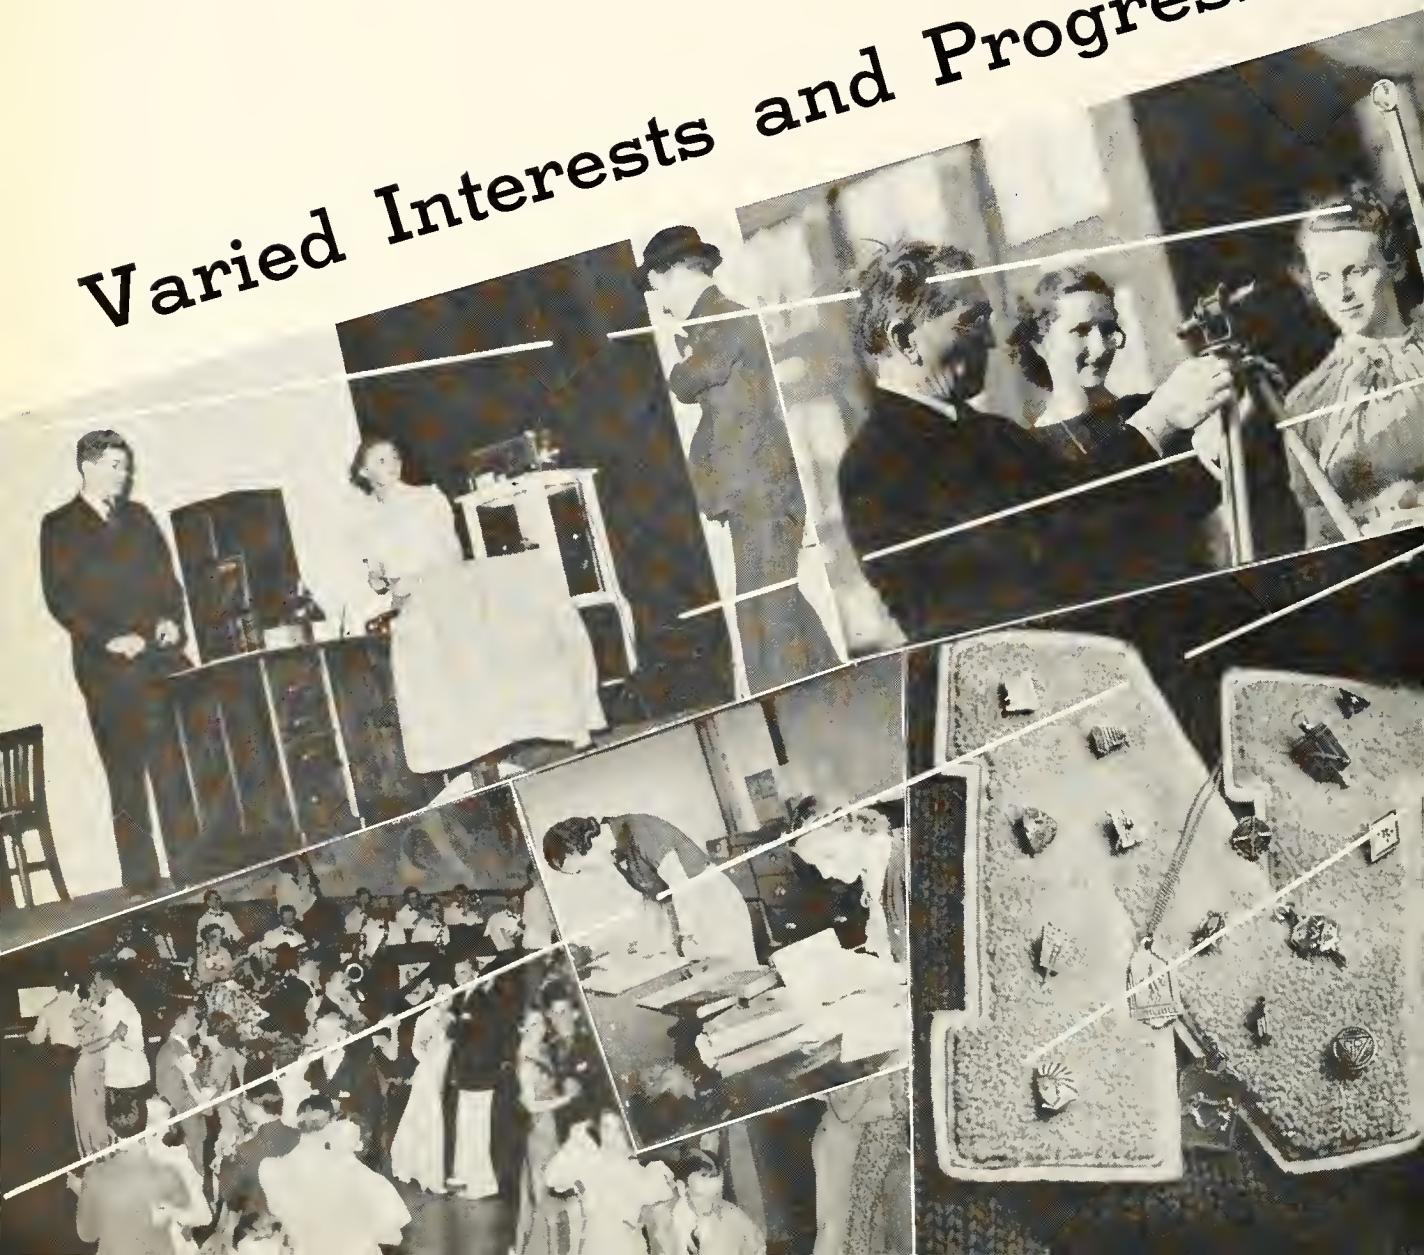

Up there by your thumb are three prospective stowaways. Noontime relaxers. Swing your lady. Bernhards and Barrymores. Lady-of-Smiles Gross. Mr. Fortmeyer, janitors' manager. Our guess: downtown Champ celebrants. Old Glory waves over the threshold. Bye, bye, babies. Perched pulchritude. A soloist solos. Romantic moments from "The Boomerang." Honey Hartnup and Teddie Field. Seniors swing for the Vod-Vil.

STUDENTS VOICE OPINIONS THROUGH COUNCIL

BY DOROTHY NIETER

"Pardon me." "Thank you!" What is the occasion for such politeness? It is Courtesy Week at North Side, sponsored by the Student Council, the organization which is the balance-wheel between the faculty and the student body.

During the past year this celebration was held the week of February 7-11. The program for the week was opened by an assembly Monday morning. Speakers were Mr. Howard Michaud, biology instructor, Max Altekruze, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, Bette Boone, and Bob McConnell.

On Tuesday and Thursday during the home room period, various phases of courtesy were discussed by the students. During the Guidance Hour Wednesday morning each student rated himself according to his own opinion of how courteous he is. At a special assembly Friday, which climaxed the activities for the week, the Etiquette Club presented skits depicting the wrong and right ways to be courteous.

Horace Mann, the founder of the public school system and whose one hundredth anniversary we celebrated last year, was honored at an assembly Wednesday, May 4. Katharine Crofts was chairman of the program.

Heroes of former wars who died on the field of battle were remembered at the annual Memorial Day celebration, Friday, May 27. In November the Student Council also was in charge of the Armistice Day assembly commemorating the end of hostilities and the laying down of arms in the great World War. The Rev. Ernest Kohlenberg was guest speaker of the day.

Friendships were made and renewed on Get-Acquainted Day held in March. Eighth graders of Forest Park, Franklin, and several parochial schools visited the great dome for the first time on Thursday, May 12. The purpose of Junior High Day is to acquaint those who will enter North Side for the first time next September with the halls, class rooms, and activities of our school.

The Student Council is composed of representatives from each home room, club, and class in the school. During the meetings attention is brought to the student body and faculty concerning the school's problems of government. Through this organization, the grievances and troubles of scholars are also made known to Mr. Milton Northrop, principal, and Miss Victoria Gross, dean.

Officers of the Student Council during the school year 1937-38 were Richard Urbine, president; Joan Hueber, vice-president; and Karl Rahdert, secretary.

CREATIVE, ARTISTIC INCLINATION ENCOURAGED

BY LOIS FRANK

"Won't you come along with me' up to room 310 for a meeting of the Art Club. There's sure to be an interesting program; and, besides having a good time, you will meet and make many new friends."

This is sound advice for all you North Siders, for the Art Club is a very worthwhile organization. The club affords a great opportunity for all members and outsiders of the Art Department to bring out whatever artistic talents they may possess. This is effected by occasional trips to the woods near the school by the "clubbers" who sketch the scenery. With suggestions as to their sketches by Miss Gertrude Zook and Miss Bernice Sinclair, advisers of the club, the members have become quite adept in the field of art.

Membership in the Art Club is not restricted to the Art Department students, but is open to any person who is interested in art in any of diverse forms. The club's purpose is to stimulate a broader knowledge and a greater appreciation of art.

Few stop to think who the individuals are who help in drives and campaigns for other clubs.

who make posters, and who do other advertising for various organizations in the school. If those few and many others would look behind the scenes, they would see the members of this artistic group working with skilled hands, so that there would be good publicity for a coming event on the program of a fellow club. This co-operation is greatly appreciated by the other organizations, who find the assistance that the Art Club gives invaluable.

The club officers for the entire year were elected at the first meeting of the group on September 23. Raymond Seaman was chosen as president; Dorothy Sauer, vice-president; Jackie Huguenard, secretary; and Anita Anderson, treasurer. These four officers planned many interesting programs for the year, among which were Christmas party and gift exchange, the Redskin Pow Wow, a successful dance given in the cafeteria on January 22, and the annual Art Club banquet given in May.

It is the habit of the club to present many interesting talks by outsiders and members of the club at monthly meetings on Thursday afternoon.

One of the most enjoyable lectures was given by Miss Gertrude Fissel of Franklin School, at the October meeting, when she spoke on her Mediterranean cruise. On April 21, Miss Julia Storr, faculty member, also gave an interesting lecture on a trip which she made into Mexico. She displayed many objects of art which she brought back with her from Old Mexico.

A very successful membership campaign was carried on by the members of the club at the beginning of the school year. So successful was this campaign that there was an increase in enrollment of fifty members over last year, making approximately a total of seventy-five members this year.

The Sauer twins, Lucille and Dorothy, have done outstanding work in art.

LITERATURE, CULTURE AND MUTUAL INTERESTS

BY PHYLLIS FIRESTONE

What? A mountain at North Side? No, only its namesake, the Helicon Club, which is named for that renowned mythological symbol of poetry and fine arts, Mount Helicon of Greece. Of course, though, this club does present a veritable peak in extra-curricular activities of the school.

A relatively new organization, this club has built up a large membership of over sixty students. The officers for the fall semester were Franklin May, president; Jack Childers, vice-president; Marjorie Krommiller, secretary; Karl Rahdert, treasurer; Theodosia Field, critic; and Phyllis Firestone, program chairman. At the beginning of the spring term, these officers were chosen to lead the club: Helen Imbody, president; Richard Bruick, vice-president; Dorothy Nieter, secretary; Eleanor Geiser, treasurer; Isobel Fraser, critic; and Mary Edith Harvey, publicity chairman. Jack Childers headed the program committee with Paul Baker, Joan Gordon, Phyllis Firestone and Theodosia Field, assistants.

The advisers are Miss Mildred Huffman, who assists in the various special club activities, and Mrs. Edith Winslow, who guides the program planning.

The purpose of the club is to further the understanding and enjoyment of literature among students. Believing that movies have come to be accepted as an art, the Helicon Club centered its program for the semester around the cinema. Among other things, appreciation of movies, acting, important directors, and outstanding pictures were discussed. At other gatherings, outside speakers gave interesting addresses. Mrs. Abe Field spoke on her travels in Europe, Asia, and Africa. Miss Julia Storr presented a talk describing her experiences in Mexico last summer.

This literary organization does not confine its energies to "blue stocking" meetings, however. It sponsored a very successful dance after one of the season's football games. In the annual G.A.A. Vod-Vil, the group gave one of the best skits in the production. During the Christmas holidays, entertaining the children at the Orphan's Home with a puppet show, "Rip Van Winkle," formed another constructive activity.

The annual presentation of the Washington-Lincoln Assembly on February 22 is one of the most important functions of the Helicon group. Joan Gordon was in charge of this year's assembly, and she, with her committee, prepared an interesting program consisting of an address by the Rev. Howard Brown of the Forest Park M. E. Church, a eulogy by Robert Johnson, a poem honoring Lincoln by Robert McConnell, and appropriate music by the A Cappella Choir.

IS THAT STORY IN -- HOW ABOUT THOSE ADS?

BY PHIL OLOFSON

A banner year, featured by the largest circulation total it has ever enjoyed, was experienced by The Northerner throughout the 1937-38 school year. The amazingly high subscription count, 1003, which smashed all previous records, was garnered by junior Rose Steiber and her corps of assistants during the September drive.

Advised capably by Miss Rowena Harvey, the school weekly also acquired new honors in both the individual and group contest divisions.

In October as a reward for the fine work they had accomplished, seven student journalists represented The Northerner at the annual meeting of the Indiana High School Press Association, which was held at Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana. The seven, Tom Suedhoff, Kate Gerig and Sheldon Wagner of the advertising department; Rose Steiber, circulation head; Ellen Kattell, news editor; Philip Olofson, co-sports editor, literally "brought home the bacon" in the individual creative contests conducted as a special feature of the press confab, with Philip Olofson garnering first place in the sports writing contest and Kate Gerig and Tom Suedhoff getting fourth place and an honorable mention respectively in the advertising division.

Accompanied by Ray Racine, Pauline Fortriede, Louise Hessert, Phyllis North, Gertrude Jaehn and Dorothy Nieter, Miss Harvey made the annual trek to the six-day Columbia Press Association Convention, which is held yearly at Columbia University in New York City. Here The Northerner as a whole gained the highest honor possible, being adjudged worthy of the Medalist Rating. For the second consecutive year the Northerner's literary quality and sports pages were selected as the finest in their division (which includes all schools with enrollments from 800-1500) and consequently given All-Columbian awards. Philip Olofson and Byron Heaston were the co-sports editors. In April The Northerner again received "tops" from the National Scholastic Press Association, the All-American rating.

More individual awards were garnered in the contests conducted in January by the National Quill and Scroll Society with Philip Olofson being awarded a bronze medal for placing third in the national sports group. Other winners from North Side were Ray Racine, who placed first in the East Central States advertising contest, and Pauline Fortriede and Louise Hessert getting honorable mentions in the headline writing and copy editing divisions.

Ray Racine and Louis Hessert were publishers for the first semester with Pauline Fortriede and Dorothy Nieter sharing duties the second half.

HONORARY CLUBS REWARD YOUNG JOURNALISTS

BY PHIL OLOFSON

Naturally accepted as a cog in the functioning of the publications is the 1500 Club. To become a member of this honorary organization and receive the bronze pin, which is no mean accomplishment, one must have earned at least 1500 points through labor on the Northerner or Legend staffs, half of which points must come through creative writing efforts.

1500 points is not the maximum goal of a journalistic aspirant, however, for subsequent awards include a silver pin for 3000 points, a gold for 5,000 and the coveted gold with a ruby inset, known as a gold jeweled for 10,000 points.

At this writing those students who had earned the highest emblem are Gertrude Jaehn, Sheldon Wagner, Ray Racine, Philip Olofson, Pauline Fortriede, Dorothy Nieter, Louise Hessert, and Phyllis North.

First Row: J. Bane, J. Scott, K. Crofts, R. Racine, R. Steiber, L. Hessert, G. Kinne, T. Field, K. Gerig, P. North.

A second honor conferred upon graduating seniors who have been particularly outstanding in Northerner or Legend work is membership in Quill and Scroll, the international honorary society for high school journalists.

Fifteen graduating seniors were awarded memberships to the Quill and Scroll, an honorary journalistic society which has an international scope. The honored students, Phyllis North, Ray E. Racine, Louise Hessert, Theodosia Field, Stanley Munger, Kathleen Closs, Ruth Needham, Betty Wysong, Phyllis Firestone, Katharine Crofts, Pauline Fortriede, Dorothy Nieter, Lois Frank, Gertrude Jaehn, and Helen Hartnup will receive along with their certificates and gold pins, a year's subscription to the Quill and Scroll magazine published monthly.

PRODUCING RIPPLING PHRASES FOR RIPPLES

BY PHYLLIS FIRESTONE

"O inspiration, come to me," is the plea of members of North Side's Quill Club. The saying goes that every Hoosier is born with a pen in his hand. If this is true, Quill Club members not only have a pen in hand, but they put it to work.

This unique literary organization is one of the few groups which can gather and accomplish its aim without officers, dues, numerous meetings, or pins. In spite of its irregular functioning, however, the Quill Club carries out one of the school's most important activities—publishing "Ripples," an annual magazine made up of articles, short stories, essays, and poems of all kinds.

Membership to this club is purely honorary, the emphasis being placed on quality rather than quantity. This year, those who belong to the Quill Club are Teddie Field, Phyllis Firestone, Dick Bruick, Paul Baker, Ruth Needham, Katharine Crofts, Helen Imbody, and Omar Kenyon.

Mr. Charles Dickinson, efficient English teacher, has been adviser of the club since 1927, when it was founded. The members of this first group who had an important part in its origination were Jean Bouillet, Margaret Umback, Philip Bowen, Margaret Smenner, Melvin Koenig, and Margaret Brudi.

The cover for the first "Ripples" was drawn by Lewis Kenyon, and for each following issue the same design was used, the only change being in the color.

Because of difficulties which arose during this first year, "Ripples" was not published, but in 1928 the initial issue was received with wide acclaim. Since that time not a single school year has passed that has not been marked by the appearance of this magazine.

No one who has joined the Quill Club has ever regretted his action. He finds a sincere joy in producing creative writing, and in seeing his own work in print. He attends the few meetings, reads and criticizes the work of other prospective authors, and hears his own efforts discussed. He experiences no feeling of embarrassment or anger for he realizes that suggestions are made in all good will and only for the purpose of improving his style.

This year's edition appeared in May, and the circulation reached a new peak. Those contributing articles were Jean Scott, Richard Bruick, Paul Baker, Omar Kenyon, Helen Imbody, Phyllis Firestone, William Miller, Geraldine Habig, Robert Braunagel, William Sefton, Allen Wyss, Mildred Sauer, William Mahuren, George McKenzie, Eugene Mommer, Virginia Myers, George

The industry and effort which is spent by its contributors makes "Ripples" very popular with all loyal Redskins. Proof of this lies in the fact that last year the circulation climbed to nearly 700 copies. Students wishing to receive "Ripples" place orders in their English classes a few days before the magazine is to appear.

TOPS IN DEBATING, PUBLIC SPEAKING, ORATORY

BY KATHARINE CROFTS

"Ladies and Gentlemen." When you hear this expression or a similar one emanating from the regions of room 312 after school, the chances are it is a member of the National Forensic League practicing for a contest. As the name implies, the National Forensic League is a national honorary society for public speakers.

The North Side chapter has a membership of forty. This year the officers were Katharine McGahey, Rose Steiber, and Marjorie Kronmiller.

Tournament competition presented itself to the "A" varsity team, composed of affirmative: William Swager and Katharine Crofts; and negative: Morrie Miller and Robert Johnson.

The record of the debate squad this year was very good. Besides winning several invitational tourneys, the fluent talkers won the district title in the State League debates.

The National Forensic does not confine its activities to debating only, but also offers its abilities to the many speech contests held in school. In the Koerber Extemp contest, Katharine Crofts won first place for the third time, thereby winning possession of a small replica of the Koerber Cup; in the Junior-Senior Oratorical Contest, Robert McConnell captured the Junior crown, and Marjorie Kronmiller won the Senior. Katharine Crofts won first and Robert Johnson, second, in the County Discussion Contest. District Discussion judges placed Robert Johnson in top place and conferred the right to be in the State Discussion at Bloomington on him.

Competing in the National Forensic League State Invitational meeting, Morrison Miller placed first in the extemporaneous speaking division; Louise Snouffer, first in dramatic reading and second in humorous reading; and Nancy Elam, first in humorous reading.

Robert Johnson also served as a Senator in the National Forensic League Congress at Wooster, Ohio. Richard Urbine was elected by the North Side chapter to be a representative in the same Congress.

Louise Snouffer and Robert Johnson garnered firsts, while William Swager placed second, and Morrison Miller, third in the invitational speech contest at Logansport.

Fourth Row: C. Thomas, H. Curdes, A. Ludwig, H. Jones, J. B. Stahn, P. Sparling, J. Winter, M. Fellows, B. Dale, P. Thieme, M. Yocom, D. Parrot, J. Neff.

Crofts, president; Robert Johnson, vice-president; Phyllis North, secretary; Richard Urbine, historian; and Alice McGahey, publicity manager.

Originally this speech season there were sixteen members. However, near the close of the year, many new speakers were added because of the experience received in reserve debating.

While debating is on the tip of our tongues, it might do well to mention the varsity speakers. Those debaters were William Swager, Katharine Crofts, Robert Johnson, Morrie Miller, Robert McConnell, Richard Bruick, Ellen Kattell, Virginia Knox, Richard Urbine, Phyllis North, Melvin Yocom, Bette Boone, Shirley Field, Alice

FROM TINY ACORNS GROWETH MIGHTY--SPEAKERS

BY KATHARINE CROFTS

Celebrating the second year of its existence, the Junior Forensic League continued the pace which it had established the previous year. Although many of the members qualified for membership in the National Forensic League near the close of the year, the club soon regained its size with the influx of mid-term freshmen.

For their leaders, the up-and-coming Cicero's named Virginia Groth, president; Joan Closs, vice-president; Frances McGahey, secretary; Pattie Malone, treasurer; Martha Dell Bates, publicity head; and Paula Bailey, social chairman.

As mentioned before, the Junior Forensic League is a comparatively new organization at North Side. It was begun a year ago by Mr. Loy C. Laney, the present adviser. The club serves as a stamping ground for newer members of the speech department and provides an outlet for those who might not wish to enter inter-scholastic contests. On the other hand, should any eventually want to join the National Forensic, the Junior group will have already acquainted the applicant with the atmosphere of the older one.

The Junior Forensic, as expected, encourages all the members to participate in the various speech contests during the year. Two contests for underclassmen are held each year; one in the spring and one in the fall. The event staged in the spring of the year is termed the Freshman - Sophomore Extemporaneous Speaking Contest. In this, Charles Perrine placed first from the Freshmen, and Jean Ringle first from the Sophomores. Other finalists were Alice Ludwig, Helen Jones, Juanita Winner, Margaret Fellows, Betsy Dale, Helen Curdes, and Gloria Burbank.

The other speaking tilt scheduled in the fall is called the Freshman-Sophomore Declamation contest. Harriet Whonsettler, Freshman, and Betty Pennington, Sophomore, were the winners in the group which also included Shirley Helmuth, Helen Curdes, Charles Perrine, Betsy Dale, Gloria Burbank, Jeanne Ringle, and Doris Killian. All the finalists in both contests were presented with red ribbons in recognition of their achievement.

At the beginning of the year, the Junior Forensic sponsored a potluck which turned out to be very successful. Fifty-six members and their parents were present. A great deal of credit must be given to Helen Curdes, who was in charge of arrangements.

On April 8 a joint potluck of the Junior and National Forensic Leagues was held. Paula Bailey was chairman for the Junior division, Ellen Kattell for the National. Virginia Groth was in general charge and served as toastmistress for the occasion. About two hundred fifty persons attended.

Reviewing the events of the year, one can point with pride to Junior Forensic League. All praise to younger members of the speech department. They are soon to become the older speakers. If present accomplishments are any indication of the future achievements, the upperclassmen must look to their laurels.

ROTTEN EGG SMELL DISCOURSES THEM NOT

BY FRED PRANGE AND KENT NITZ

Dipping their test tubes into a myriad of activities, Phy-Chem members find themselves the "front-page news" on a number of days throughout the semester.

Activities of the club are so varied that at times one wonders whether they come within the scope of the prescribed activities of the club. Yet, they all come under the heading of enjoyment for the benefit of the members. Early in the first semester of school, they went out to the old Northern Indiana Public Service Company to inspect, probably for the last time, the manufacturing of water gas in the Fort Wayne plant. Shortly after this the club engaged in the annual Vod-Vil. Many of the members participated in the skit written by Ellison Meier and Kent Nitz.

Another hike was taken during the winter, just before Christmas vacation, to the Fort Wayne Winding Company, to observe generators being made. The club as a whole went to the Coca Cola Bottling Works. Early in April the club traveled to Westinghouse Radio Stations WOWO and WGL to view their new studios. They were cordially greeted by the radio station executives and were guided through the studios by an alumnus of North Side.

Trips were also made to the Perfection Biscuit Company and the Furnas Ice Cream Company. The last meeting of the club was held on the Blume farm. This meeting was held in honor of the June seniors.

Throughout the year, experiments and demonstrations were performed by the students at the regular club meetings. These programs were nicely arranged by the vice-presidents, Richard Coleman and Richard Larson. Many outside speakers were included on the various programs, some of whom were: Mr. Howard Michaud, who talked on forestry and conservation of wild life; Mr. Frederick Breeze, who lectured on fossils and geology; the chief chemist of the Three Rivers Filtration plant, and a chemist and physicist from the General Electric experimental laboratories.

Explosives and their effectiveness filled the demonstration given by Ervin Blume. Tony Kochendorfer illustrated by the use of the laws of physics the method the ancient Egyptians used to irrigate their lands and their crops.

Ellison Meier, Richard Coleman, and Robert Moorman served respectively as president, vice-president, and secretary during the first semester. Those that held offices during the following semester were: Kent Nitz, president; Richard Larson, vice-president; Bettie Murchland, secretary, and Bruce Oswald, treasurer. Mr. Harold Thomas and Mr. Rolla Chambers, chemistry and physics teachers, proved to be very capable advisers for the club, creating a group of extremely enthusiastic members.

Membership in this club is open for the first two months of each semester to students taking or having taken either chemistry or physics.

A new plan was inaugurated this year whereby all members may take an active part in the management and presentation of a program.

Alice McGahey and Virginia McCormick are in charge of next year's programs and activities.

CONTOUR MAPS AND FIELD TRIPS -- MAIN HOBBY

BY ANNE RIDDLE

Geography Council is one of the few clubs at North Side which has been organized, not for social purposes whatsoever, but solely for the purpose of furthering the student's knowledge which has been started in classroom work. Because just those students who are enrolled in physical and commercial geography classes are interested in this club, the membership, naturally, is limited. To the members, the Geography Council is most interesting and worthwhile for leisure time.

Geography Council was founded by Mr. Frederick Breeze in 1931. In 1932 it became affiliated with the Indiana Junior Academy of Science, and, since that year, has been one of the thirty-two high school science club members of this organization, whose purpose is to encourage scientific work in high schools.

Under the supervision of its faculty adviser, Mr. Breeze, this club carries on many unusual field studies. One of the projects of the group was the sending of balloons to test the velocity and direction of the wind. This year Paul Thompson and Gene Riley made a model of canal locks which was on display at the annual fall meeting of the Indiana Junior Academy of Science held at North Manchester. A relief model was made by Willard Hughes, while geographical charts were exhibited by Betty Stickley, Bonnie Ervin, Magdaline Espich, Peggy Spacke, Peggy Meek, and Bill Allen. Ronald Bishop presented a ten-minute paper on Physical Geography in Fort Wayne High Schools.

The main project for 1938 was the field study of ground from near the Fort Wayne Country Club to a point near the Orchard Ridge Country Club. This work consisted, first, of making a contour map of the grounds; next, making a map showing the houses, gardens, and fields; and, finally, collecting samples of soil from the belts of lowlands, the upland slopes, and the sand dunes. The chief purpose of the study was to find out how soil and slope determine the uses to which the land may be put. Alice Friedman was in charge of the leveling work of the project.

Members spend much time in making contour maps, which show the details, every depression and rise in the earth's surface. By means of several surveyor instruments they measure the height of all hills, paying particular attention to the creeks, street or paths, and parks which go through that particular tract of land. When all measurements and notations have been compiled, they draw the maps with painstaking neatness and accuracy.

Peggy Meek also made an interesting topographic model of an interesting locality in one of the western National Parks.

The officers of this departmental club for the past semester have been Gene Riley, president; Betty Stickley, vice-president; Ruth Hattendorf, secretary-treasurer; Ronald Bishop, Student Council representative.

Officers for the first semester were Paul Thompson, president; Kent Evans, vice-president; Ronald Bishop, secretary-treasurer; and Peggy Meek, Student Council representative.

Projects of the club in previous years included locating the old channels of the Saint Mary's and Saint Joseph's Rivers and studying the limestone quarries at Huntington.

PLEASURE AND SERVICE GIVEN TO ALL GIRLS

BY PAULINE FORTRIEDE

Dale Carnegie scores again! This time the noted author of "How To Win Friends and Influence People" inspired a program of self-analysis and personal guidance for the members of Polar-Y, the organization of warm-hearted girls. Interrogatively, the group initiated a series of aidful forums with "How Wide Is My World?" This topic was supplemented throughout the first semester by discussions on the world of friends, the world of music, the world of peace—a highly elaborate subject for debate,—a world of thanks, a world of personal development, and a world of joy.

As a means of partly determining the breadth of their world, the members sponsored a project of filling with toys and clothing a suitcase to be sent to a refugee child in war-stricken Spain.

Combining talents as hostesses with those of the other two Fort Wayne high schools, the northern Girl Reserve members sponsored the annual dance following the sectional basketball tourney. The committee was headed by Kathleen Oetting.

With due solemnity and beauty in words and decorations, a fitting program was presented at Easter time.

Following the precedent of several years, the annual Mother-Daughter tea was given, honoring the parents of the members. Attractive details in appointments and service made the event an outstanding one.

Amid flowers and farewells, the Senior members took their leave at the final program, the Senior farewell. Appreciation of co-operation and enjoyment of working together was expressed through spokesmen from the graduating and underclass groups.

"On the Good Ship Prisonola," a clever original skit of radio programs and hillbillies, was the club presentation in the annual G. A. A. Vod-Vil.

During the first semester, Vivian Walborn served as president; Bette Boone, vice-president; Charlene Reamer, secretary; Bonnie Ben Dure, treasurer; Kathleen Oetting, social chairman; Mary Lu Hunter, service chairman; Doris Fitz-Gerald, membership chairman; Bettie Murchland, music chairman; Dorothy Doerfler, publicity chairman; and Patricia Sparling, point recorder. On January 12, installation of the newly-elected officers to hold office during the spring semester took place, Vivian Walborn, Bonnie Ben Dure, Doris FitzGerald, and Dorothy Doerfler, succeeding themselves as president, treasurer, membership chairman, and publicity chairman, respectively. At this same election on January 12, Charlene Reamer became vice-president; Bette Boone, secretary; Patricia Sparling, social chairman; Bettie Murchland, service chairman; Shirley Helmuth, music chairman; and Doris Fortriede, point recorder.

DEVELOPING IDEALS OF TOMORROW'S CITIZENS

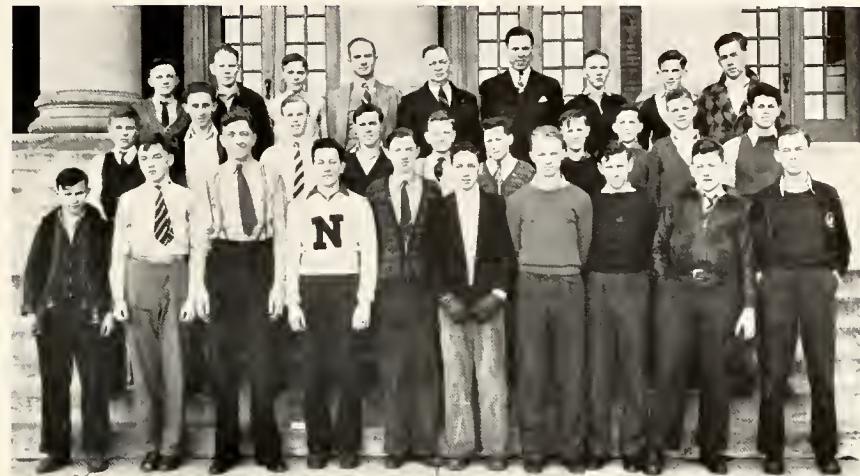

BY BILL GERHARD

For men only is this club. Think of it! A club blessed with a complete masculine membership. The thirty-five active members walk up a steep flight of stairs every Thursday evening and enter the club room of the Y. M. C. A. Here is a well-furnished room and in the pervading Y-pool atmosphere they hold in a very informal manner their business meeting and order of the day.

The business meeting is usually short, including the recital of the purpose and the platform. Subsequent to the business end of the meeting comes a guest speaker who is usually from some industrial walk of life. The Hi-Yans heard Mr. Claude Summers, electrical engineer at the G. E., who explained and demonstrated the reproduction of sound waves. Mr. A. D. Childers, traveling salesman, enlightened the boys on this commercial world's greatest subject, "Salesmanship." Mr. Young Yein, Chinese, told of the customs and traditions of his native land. A round-world voyage was vividly described by Mr. Louis Schwan, general secretary of the Y. "Electrical Engineering" was the theme of the talk of Mr. Samuel Chadwick, head of the engineering department of the General Electric. Duke Baier, Fort Wayne piano teacher, played several compositions. Clifford Springer, membership secretary of the Y, related several of the most trying moments of his life, moments in which his course of action shaped the lives of not only himself but also others.

Industrial trips were taken through the Eskay Dairy and Filtration Plant. Swims, although they came few and far between, were greatly enjoyed. A skating party constituted their sole financial enterprise. A successful basketball tournament was held with the Torch Clubs. Three conventions, the district, state, and Peruvian, were represented by Hi-Y members.

Carl Gunkler served as president the first term.

Second Row: V. Eggiman, E. Bauer, R. Mong, T. Collins, V. Adams, K. Young, D. Becker, J. Walborn, B. White, K. Nitz.

Third Row: M. Lahrman, L. Staak, E. Wyneken, Mr. Reeves, Mr. Northrop, Mr. Hartley, O. Gunkler, D. Hartnup, R. Schuelke.

Assisting him were: Clark Waterfall, second prexy; Gene Yergens, secretary; and Richard Kyle, treasurer.

Richard Larson was named to engineer the high office for the second semester; Robert Winner served in the capacity of vice-president; Eugene Hartman, as secretary; and Harry Collins, as treasurer. The faculty advisers are Mr. Dave Hartley and Mr. Leslie Reeves.

Hi-Y pins were first purchased this year. The neatly designed pin features the triangle, emblem of the Young Men's Christian Association, with the words, "Senior Hi-Y," engraved thereon. Specially made pins were presented to the advisers by the club members.

Their aims, their objectives are to do their bit in the creating and developing of character. As stated in their creed, "The purpose is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. Education along the lines of vocations and human interest is administered through discussions and talks. Fun, fun too, is by no means a left out element. As a matter of fact it is inevitable. When a group of boys of ages not varying from between two and three years apart, congregate, what can one expect, a solemn church ceremony?

CANDID CAMERA OFFERS ENTERTAINING HOBBY

BY BILL GERHARD

If competition were open for the most industrious club, Miss Marian Bash and her candid cameramen would surely vie for a medalist award. Their organization of "snappers" is both serving the school and developing an intense interest in the great hobby of photography. This praiseworthy group appeared first in the chronicles of North Side five years ago. It has grown, it has improved itself until it has become almost indispensable to the student body in the way of entertainment and visual education.

We first felt appreciation for this club one day two years ago on a warm afternoon in Biology class. The lesson for the day centered on flowers. The text being almost indecipherable to us, we were inclined to a great deal of restlessness. It was this day that one of the films was shown to the class, unraveling the four-syllable words of the text into the one syllable words of ordinary conversation. We can say with profoundest sincerity that we would have never comprehended that phase of Biology had it not been for the films, obtained and operated by the Camera Club. Our case has not been an exception; similar ones occur every day a film is shown. One film a day or one hundred a semester are presented in the class rooms by the members.

The year slipped by with Robert Moorman at the steering wheel; Robert McConnell as the silent man; Betty Altekroose, secretary and treasurer; Ray Creager overawing the dark room; Paul Baker as Ray's assistant; and Neil Currie acting as film director.

During the course of 1938, a second courtesy film was made. Scenarios were offered by members of the student body. The new talking-picture machine was a long-awaited contribution to the school's equipment. The machine was purchased by the school, the Camera Club volunteering to help pay for it with feature pictures. Three-cent noon pictures, feature pictures, dances, parties, and so forth, form the social activities. The new dark room, at present their pride, was first utilized last September. Since then, piece by piece, equipment has been installed until at present a conveniently equipped room is at their disposal. In the dark room, the novitiate is taught to develop, enlarge, and print the pictures.

A new sound projector was purchased by the club. Its operation lies in the hands of James Bixby, cameraman.

Each week featured in our trophy case a picture taken by a member of the club.

A point system for the active members was enacted. Its awards, a silver pin requiring 50 points and a gold one requiring one hundred points, inspired the members to more diligent work. The pin fashions a camera with its long nose protruding from the mid-section. The points are secured by running the projector, working on the movies, and by learning the various steps—developing, printing, and enlarging—of pictures.

The social life of the cameraman proves to be as interesting as the professional life. Service of the Camera Club to both school and members is valuable.

"SERVICE TO OTHERS: WORLD-WIDE FRIENDSHIP"

BY HELEN HARTNUP

The Junior Red Cross Club of North Side High School is the most charitable organization in the school. It is one of the many members of the American Red Cross Association. Last year the club was very active in helping to care for the unfortunate flood victims in the inundated Ohio River Valley. This year activities have been confined to local charity projects.

Officers elected for the first semester were: Lenore Hofer, president; Phyllis Zickgraf, vice-president; Helen Hartnup, secretary; Marjorie Paulison, treasurer; Marcia Agerter, point recorder. The committee chairmen chosen to serve for the semester were: Phyllis Zickgraf, program; Lavonne Blaising, service; Joan Swain, social; Alice Lusk, membership; Pauline Poorman, friendship; and Mildred Miller, publicity. At the beginning of the semester a membership drive was held. Many new members were acquired during this drive.

The club presented a skit in the annual G. A. A. Vod-Vil. The title of the skit was "The Life of a Red-skin." Phyllis Zickgraf was chairman of the Vod-Vil committee. The skit proved very successful.

Money for the annual Allen County Childrens' Christmas party was donated to the American Red Cross by this club. Members also made Christmas cards and sent them to the Soldiers Home. They did many other smaller projects during the year, such as making small nutcups, bookmarks, and other things and sending them to different homes.

The club sponsored a tea dance on October 15. Proceeds of this affair were used to help defray the expenses which accompanied the distribution of Thanksgiving baskets to the needy.

An album from Yugoslavia was received by the club. The club sent many scrapbooks and albums to soldiers' homes and orphans' homes.

Many of the club's members worked during the year at the downtown offices of the American Red Cross. They also helped at the Red Cross exhibit which was displayed at the annual Teachers Convention.

At Thanksgiving time the club gave about fifteen baskets of food to needy people in this locality. Apples and potatoes for these baskets were obtained by having certain days designated for students to bring these foods. The amount of food that was brought in by the students proved this new plan very successful.

At Christmas time baskets of food were distributed to twenty homes. Christmas gifts were given with these baskets. More baskets were delivered this year than in any year previous. At this time a dance was held, admission being granted to anyone who presented a can of food. This method of getting food proved popular with the students and will probably be used again.

Offices for the second semester were filled by: Mildred Miller, president; Phyllis Zickgraf, vice-president; Joyce Swain, secretary; Marjorie Paulison, treasurer; and Geraldine Habig, recorder.

EXPERIENCE IN ACTING GAINED THROUGH DRAMA

BY ELLISON MEIER

Taking a curtain call for the tenth year on the Redskin stage of extra-curricular activities, the Student Players' Club entertained at various times the members of the student body, parents, and private membership with dramatic ventures.

Positions were selected for Richard Coleman, president; Theodosia Field, vice-president; and Marjorie Kronmiller, secretary-treasurer, during the fall semester. Ellison Meier wielded the gavel, Louise Snouffer stood by as vice-president; and Kathleen Closs managed the secretarial and treasury duties from January to June. Margery Suter is the faculty adviser.

"Midnight in the Morgue," the mysterious, chill-stirring title of the equally weird skit in the annual G. A. A. Vod-Vil on November 12 opened the active season of the group. Following tradition, two one-act plays were presented before the student body early in December; a tragedy, "Laid Off," and a comedy, "The Soul of the Professor."

A different sort of Christmas play was presented this year. The play chosen was "Columbine Madonna," and the characters were Marjorie Kronmiller, Richard Coleman, Richard Urbine, Ellison Meier, and Lester Frankenstein.

With eyes on the coveted plaque awarded each year at the tri-high school Student Players' initiation, the January program committee, Pauline Fortriede, chairman; Ellison Meier and Kent Nitz, organized and presented the initiates in a series of "Time Saunters By" episodes. In the eyes of the judges, the production was the best of those presented. Jeanette Frie and Robert Shambaugh were the outstanding actors.

Swinging to the big event of the year, the Senior play, the members of the Senior class and Student Players co-operated to produce the most successful play in the school's history. An audience of about twelve hundred persons enjoyed the comedy, "The Boomerang." Ellison Meier created the stage personality of the advising young doctor. Supporting him with wholehearted interest and acting were Kathleen Closs, Louise Snouffer, Marjorie Kronmiller, Marjorie Paulison, Rozanne Stephens, Ruth Needham, Richard Coleman, Sherman Weinstein and Robert Shambaugh.

Too, the stage crew must not go unrecognized. Lester Frankenstein called directions as stage manager to Richard Coleman, junior stage manager; James Bixby, chief electrician; Don Dolan, assistant electrician; and George Dunten, Robert Hattersley, Alfred Bartholomew, Ray Seaman, Omar Kenyon, and Bud Schroeder.

LOYAL BOOSTERS OF NORTH SIDE WORK HARD

BY EARL DRESSLER AND JULIANA BANE

"Better swing that Indian just a bit to the right. Hurry up! You know it's gotta be up for the game tonight. Oh, what about those streamers?" There is always that last minute rush before a basketball game. Booster Club members can always be found in the midst of that mad scramble, climbing over rafters, cutting streamers, and painting Indians on the war path.

"Five, fifteen, twenty-five cents. There, sir, is your change. Gum? Here you are. Thank you." Again we see the Booster Club in the center of activities, selling refreshments to Redskin fans who attend games. Not only does the Booster Club decorate the gym and sell refreshments at games, but also it plans pep sessions, boosts the school spirit, and gives its loyal support at all school projects whenever possible. It assisted in buying North Side's present band uniforms.

At the South Side football game, red balloons attached to sticks were given to the "early birds." The red balloons, streamers, and red sweaters gave a very loyal, appropriate appearance to the Redskins. Red and white feathers, "N" megaphones and other novelties were sold at the basketball games.

A new successful song and yell, "Sweet Varsity Sue," was introduced to the student body by the Varsity yell leaders, "Curly" Hartman, captain; Bill Swager, and Bob Johnson. During the reserve games Neil Currie, Bob Jackson, and Johnnie Walker led the "kids" in cheering their team. Boosters supplies uniforms, megaphones, and transportation for the cheer leaders.

But life for a Booster member is not all work and no play. During the course of the year, the Boosters enjoyed two potlucks and a theatre party. The big social event April 22 was the dance the club gives each year, honoring North Side Lettermen. The theme, "He-Man Hop", was carried out effectively under the able leadership of Earl Dressler, who was general chairman of the affair, and Esther Walda, decorations chairman.

Under the supervision of the advisers, Miss Oral Furst, Miss Judith Bowen, Miss Katherine Rothenberger, and Miss Hazel Plummer, the Booster Club, one of the oldest organizations of North Side, now has an active membership roll of one hundred students. This is the largest membership which has ever been attained by the club. In order to become an active member, the student must be at least a sophomore, must have earned twenty-five points and maintained fifteen points per year as the minimum amount. Points are given for decorating, selling at games, working on committees, and attending meetings regularly. Jeweled pins are awarded to Seniors who have done outstanding work.

Earl Dressler headed the club both semesters.

WHAT PASSIONS ... MUSIC RAISE AND QUELL?

BY RUTH NEEDHAM

North Side High School has a well-organized and active music department. Mr. Varner M. Chance tries to give his pupils a love of interpreting and listening to good music—an appreciation and understanding of cultural things.

More than four hundred students have become members of the music department either in the band, orchestra, A Cappella Choir, chorus, or music appreciation.

Members of the band demonstrated their drilling ability under the direction of Robert Shambaugh, drum major at the football games, and also provided musical entertainment and boosting at the pep sessions and basketball games. The band was also invited by many civic organizations to participate in civic ceremonies and celebrations.

They played for the Lions' Club Naturalization program held at North Side and at the Lincoln Life Insurance Company in memory of Abraham Lincoln. The outstanding performance was the evening concert given in the auditorium in November.

Although it has not made so many public appearances, the orchestra has demonstrated its superior ability. It presented five selections at the annual Spring Festival, March 25. Numbers by the chorus of more than one hundred voices, A Cappella, and several specialties by Lois Ruth Burns, Dorothy Bracht, Betty Boggs, Shirley Helmuth, Robert Shambaugh, and Margaret Ann Voirol, were also given at this festival. Much applause met the little smyphony of the orchestra.

which played the score of the operetta, "South in Sonora." A small selected orchestra was asked to play for the annual grade school musical program.

Members of the chorus have been trained until they can sing effectively and harmoniously. The combined chorus gave a most successful guest performance accompanied by the Fort Wayne Civic Symphony in the Shrine Auditorium and also appeared in the Spring Festival.

Various projects were carried out during the year by the music department. January 7, following the North Side-South Side basketball game, a dance was held, Musical Minuet, under the joint chairmanship of Franklin May, Jack Childers, and Robert Braunagel. The Fanfare Quintette from the White Hazarres were enthusiastically received by the students in an assembly program March 15. The annual spring operetta was given Saturday, May 14.

History and appreciation in music in performance and theory are taught in the music appreciation class. Short talks on music and demonstrations and explanations of musical instruments are made by several students. Notebooks containing biographies of masters in the music world, opera stories, and notes on class recitations are made by students each semester. Here the cultural development of the student was started.

Those who entered the district music contest sponsored by Indiana University are J. Tobias, M. Voirol, S. Helmuth, and R. Needham, piano; and R. Shambaugh, violin.

THEIR SINGING COULD BRING AN ANGEL DOWN

BY RUTH NEEDHAM

With a song in their hearts and on their lips, the A Cappella Choir members have enjoyed making their many public appearances. The Choir, under the direction of Mr. Varner M. Chance, is composed of forty members who were selected after extensive try-outs. They rehearse regularly three times a week, and their repertoire includes all types of choral music.

This year the A Cappella Choir was asked to sing by various civic and church organizations. Altogether, they made about twenty-five public appearances in Fort Wayne. They sang in October at the Forest Park M. E. Church, the Chamber of Commerce, Trinity English Lutheran Church; in November at the McCullouch School, Paramount Theater for an Armistice Day Program, Band and Choir Concert; in December for the Old Fort Player's performance, Simpson M. E. Church, First Presbyterian Church, and Irene Byron Sanitorium.

After taking a rest in January, they began again in February by singing for a Naturalization program at North Side High School and by presenting a half-hour musical program on our radio program over Station WGL. In March, they sang at the Woman's Club, Plymouth Congregational Church, Crescent Avenue Evangelical Church, and Kiwanis Club; and in April at Harmony Hall, Trinity Episcopal Church, First M. E. Church, and the Little Art Theater.

The greatest honor that has come to North Side's music department was the invitation to represent Indiana at the National Contest of A Cappella Choirs at St. Louis, Missouri, in March. After presenting an assembly program to the student body, the Choir started off in two large busses.

Although they witnessed severe storms on the way, the choir reached their destination in time to participate in the contest. They received a rating of fair, which spoke well for the hours of practice. On the last evening a concert was presented by the combined choirs. Members of A Cappella Choir were amply rewarded for their hard work in preparation for the St. Louis Choral Festival by receiving silver national honorary pins. The choir also brought back a certificate of honor rating. Parents and friends met the returning party at the city limits and escorted them to the school, where they were welcomed.

The A Cappella Choir formed the nucleus of the cast for the operetta, "South in Sonora," which was presented by the music department on May 14. A chorus gave fine support to the cast which included Lois Ruth Burns, Vivian Walborn, Betty Stickley, Bette Boone, Ruth Needham, Herbert Kaiser, Jack Childers, James Kirwin, Robert Shambaugh, Lawrence Herrick, Keith Riley, Edwin Ashley, and John Beams.

Juniors and seniors who have done outstanding work in the music department are given gold lyre-shaped pins on Recognition Day. A select number receive also gold guards of the year they will be graduated.

A GLIMPSE OF NORTH SIDE THROUGH THE LEAVES

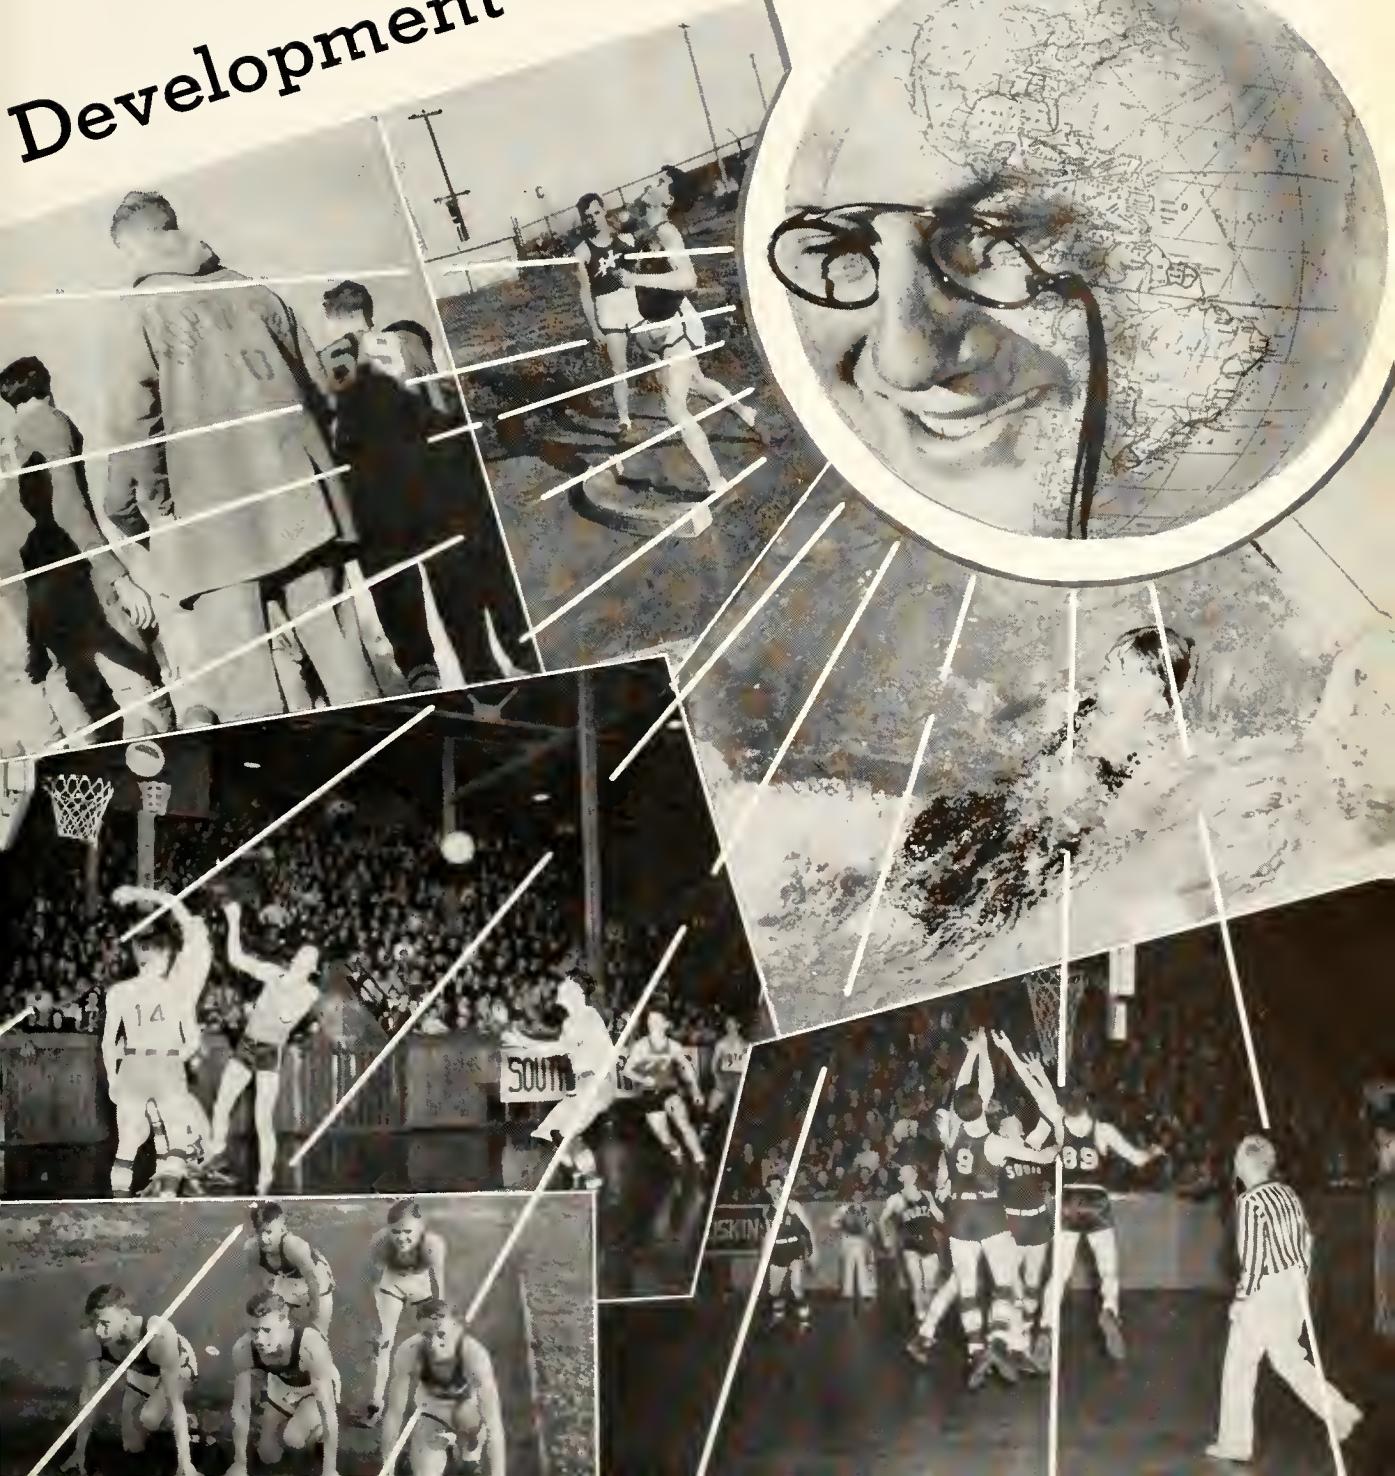

A student must face the world with sound mind and body. Through sensible participation in sports, he acquires good health and learns to be a good sportsman and to take the 'knocks' standing up. These lessons and a sturdy physique will prove valuable.

Probably the most sought-after club and the club that requires the most effort to gain membership is the Lettermen's Club. This club welcomes all boys who have won a letter in one or more of the major sports on the North Side athletic card.

During the past year, Ed Boedeker served as president, Richard Weaver as vice-president, and Richard Fruechtenicht as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Robert Nulf and Mr. Rolla Chambers assisted the "N" men in the faculty advisers' positions.

The first date on the social calendar for the boys of "N's" was the annual Lettermen's Dance, which was held on December 4, following the North Side-Nappanee basketball game. Ed Boedeker was general chairman of the dance, which proved successful.

The highlight of the social events, as it has been in the past years, was the annual Lettermen's banquet, held in the school cafeteria on December 21. Warren Miller, grad of 1937, acted as toastmaster of the affair, which was attended by many alumni members who at this time were home from college for the Christmas vacation. Ralph Graham, backfield coach of Indiana University, was the principal guest. Other speakers included Bud Manth and Ben Tenny of the two local papers, Superintendent Merle J. Abbott, and the Messrs. Robert Nulf, Rolla Chambers, Leslie Reeves, Hyre Ivy, John DeLong, Milton Northrop, and Elvin Eyster.

George Golden, captain of the 1937 undefeated and untied football eleven and all-state guard, also made a short speech.

Food preparations were taken care of by the mothers of the boys.

The next social event for the Lettermen was the He-Man's Hop, which was sponsored by the Booster Club on April 3, honoring the Lettermen of North Side. The social card was completed with a picnic that was attended by all Lettermen.

At the present time there are forty-two Lettermen in North Side. Eighteen of these Lettermen are seniors and will graduate in June. This leaves twenty-six boys to aid in keeping up the athletic reputation of North Side High School.

All Lettermen stand out because of their courteous habits in all-around school life. They often aid in school activities such as ushering at games and take part in other extra curricular activities, which make their clean, helpful sportsmanship always a shining characteristic.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS PROGRAM

More than five hundred boys participated in the intramural athletic program this year. In the best organized series of games ever to be staged within the school, every boy with any desire to play in the hardwood sport found time to get into actual competition. At the completion of all three divisions a total of two hundred games had been played.

The first program to be run off was the Leaders' tournament. This tourney was composed of twenty-four teams organized by members of the student body. The team winning four successive games to clinch the title was Sandy's five composed of Sefton, McNutt, Harrison, Benninghoff, and Green. The Thunderbolts led by Oswald, Johnston, M. Irmscher, R. Irmscher, Rodenbeck, and Motherwell won in the consolation tilt. Leading scorers were Didier, Harrison, Benninghoff, Oswald, M. Irmscher, Fryer, and Christ.

In the Intramural Leagues three loops were organized with eight teams seeing action in the Senior division, and four squads battling it out in the other two leagues, the Varsity and Midget. The Illinois bucketeers composed of Miller as captain, Irmscher, Collins, Weinstein, Oswald, Fryer, and Riley won the Senior cage crown by finishing their regular season undefeated in seven starts. In the Midget League Cornell led by O'Dier, Love, and Ley finished well ahead in the title race by conquering six straight opponents. In the Varsity loop the top position was held jointly by the Zippers and Snipers, who had each won four and lost three during the regular playing season.

In the final Intramural splurge of the year, the Home Room tournament was run off. Two brackets were formed, the Junior-Senior division and the Freshman-Sophomore group. The stand-out teams of each bracket were Senior home room 337, Junior home room 312, Sophomore home room 212 and the Freshman home room 222. In the finals of each bracket 312 with Koontz, Didier, Affolder, Irmscher, Kroner, and Hill advanced to the finals along with 222. By defeating 222, home room 312 became home room champs of the school for the second consecutive year.

These two teams with Cornell and Illinois were entered in the playoffs for the Intramural championship. By virtue of winning two games the Zippers—Popp, Ranly, Bennett, Link, Werling, and Harrison met the favored Illini quintet in the finals and upset them by a 24 to 15 score.

Some of the outstanding players for the year in Intramural were Didier, Affolder, Fryer, Collins, Oswald, Popp, Ranly, Oetting and Irons. All of these boys saw action in at least sixteen games during the season and all accounted for a lot of their teams' points regularly, playing good offensive ball and maintaining a tight defense at the same time.

Our Gridders Claim Mythical State Title

BY RAY RACINE

Starting a banner year in North Side sports, the Redskin football team captured four places that proved to be the first in the school's history. These places were first, undisputed City Championship; second, the 1937 North Eastern Indiana Crown; third, undefeated season; fourth, a claim on the State football championship. Added honors were brought to the team by George Golden, all-city and all-state guard; Richard Weaver, Tom Kemp, and Larry Johnston, all-city tackles; Robert Horne, all-city and fourth team all-state end; Gordon Turner, all-city center; Gaylord Turner, all-city quarterback; Everett Huth, all-city right halfback; and Edward Boedeker, all-city left halfback.

To start out the season, the Indians had the 1936 Midwest Football Champions, Mooseheart, carded for September 17. Playing what proved to be the toughest ball club on their schedule, the Warriors settled back on their kicking and passing ability to capture a thrilling 13-6 game from the Illinois team.

The Tribe, led by the passing and running of Eddie Boedeker, scalped the Goshen Red Menaces down to their ears the following Friday night with a 27 to 0 count.

Central Catholic was next on the list, the first city team to meet the steam rolling Warriors and the first to fall before them. Playing heads up ball and grabbing every opportunity, the home team outplayed the Irish in every department to put a 46-6 runaway among its other two successful ventures.

On the forthcoming Friday, the powerhouse eleven from the banks of the St. Joe met and conquered their second city rival, Central, 27-13, and in so doing stacked up win number four. Everett Huth proved to be the sparkplug in the Redskin squad, scoring two of the four touchdowns.

The Railroaders from Garrett entertained the Redmen on October 16. With the varsity in the game the first three quarters, the Railroaders were held from scoring while the visitors crossed the line four times. In the final quarter, playing against substitutes, the Garrett aggregation found their footing and struck twice in quick succession to end the scoring at 25 to 12.

After taking one of the longest trips that a North Side football eleven has ever traveled, the pigskinners showed their appreciation to the athletic heads by taking Bosse of Evansville into camp 13 to 0. Ed Boedeker again proved himself the fieldmaster that he is by continually smashing over tackle, cutting his end sharp and fast, and passing and punting to perfection. He was ably aided by Everett Huth and Norman Potts, who time after time pierced the center of the line for big gains, one being a touchdown by Huth.

Nearing the close of the season, the Indian Warriors tasted of the sweet cup of victory for the seventh time and won their first undisputed city football crown in a bang-up game, outclassing South Side's eleven 25-6 at the latter's stadium. Riding high after a poor first quarter display of defensive tactics, the North Siders punched over a touchdown in the second period for a 12-to-6 lead and then put the clincher on the Reds' second football victory over the Green and White in eleven starts by counting twice in the third canto. The aerial work presented by the combination of Boedeker on the passing end and Bob Horne on the receiving end proved to be the outstanding performance of the day.

The following "fish day" the North Side Indian Warriors brought to a close the most successful football season the St. Joe school has ever seen by outrunning, outpassing, and outkicking the Decatur Yellow Jackets with the count of 33 to 0 in their favor.

With eight victories as a season's record, unstained by a single defeat or tie, the 1937 edition of the North Side football team asserted themselves 1937 State Football Champions.

Edward Boedeker led the scoring of the pigskinners with eight touchdowns and 13 conversions after touchdowns for a total of 61 points. Next in line for scoring honors is Everett Huth with 54 points followed by Frank Werling, Richard Freuchtenicht, Norman Potts, Robert Horne, and Carl Gunkler.

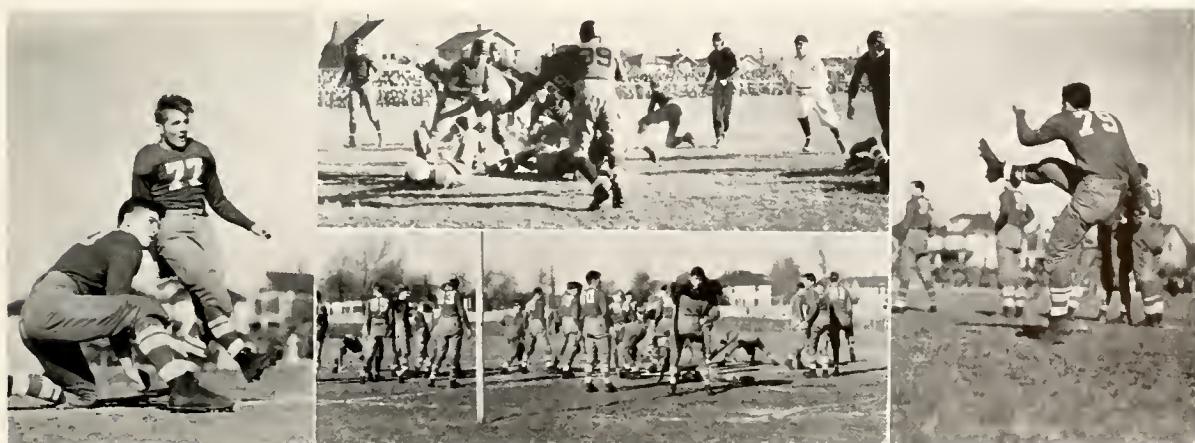

George Golden, all-state guard, was selected by the players to serve as honorary captain of the 1937 squad and received his sweater with three service stripes and one gold stripe to denote this honor.

Among those of the state title team that put on their football uniforms to play in their last high school pigskin match the evening of the victory over Huntington are: Robert Horne, Larry Johnson, Richard Weaver, Tom Kemp, Norman Potts, Glenn Leazure, Carl Gunkler, Edward Boedeker, Richard Fruechtenicht, George Golden, Harold Braunagel, and William Altekruse.

With the training given them by Coach Robert Nulf as a background, it won't be many semesters before we should see their names on rosters of colleges and maybe on All-American teams.

In conclusion we wish to salute the State Champions and say, "You played a swell season, chuck full of good hard-fought games."

So on to basketball - - -

Net Players Enjoy 18 Wins In 22 Starts

BY TONY KOCHENDORFER

The moleskins hadn't been in the moth balls for much more than a week before the swish of nets heralded the opening of another hardwood campaign at North Side. And what a successful campaign it was! So much so that it proved to be one of the most prosperous seasons ever to be enjoyed by a group of Redskin netters in the history of the Big Red Tepee on the banks of the St. Joe.

Imbued with a flaming spirit of victory gained from an undefeated season on the gridiron, the Red and White basketeers were not to be denied their sup from the sweet cup of victory. No less than sixteen of the nineteen foes encountered during the regular season experienced defeat at the hands of the Indians.

As the season got under way Medicine-Man Nulf found that he had a nucleus of six returning lettermen about whom he had to conjure up a winning combination. Included among these veterans were Horne, Werling, Fruechtenicht, Gunkler, Boedeker, and Golden. This able group of court performers plus Huth, Hill, Hieber, and Russell constituted the array that set out on November 27 to put the wraps on a 19-game schedule which was, incidentally, the largest ever attempted by an Indian aggregation. Eight games were N. E. I. C. tilts, and city foes were encountered five times.

The season opened as usual with the Masonic Home of Franklin furnishing the opposition and coming out on the short end of a 45-25 count. Loose ball handling and rough play marked this opening contest as the Warriors seemed unable to shake off the inhibitions of the not-so-long dead football season. As a result, the fans were treated to a number of off-tackle plays and cross-body blocks.

This rough play was carried over into the next game in which the Indians eked out a 26-24 decision over the Central Tigers to cop their first encounter in the race for the city net title.

Twenty-four personals marked the Red's rough-shod, 38-30 victory over Nappanee.

A great deal of improvement in ball handling was manifested the following week as a smooth, well-oiled Redskin quintet stretched their string of athletic victories for the year to twelve by exterminating their first N. E. I. C. foe, the Decatur Yellow Jackets. Taking an early lead, the Indians showed that they had settled down to a long season of tough basketball by playing a steady game, the result of which was the better half of a 38-23 score.

One point. Just one more point. Aye, therein lies the rub, for North Side had 25 and Peru 26. In a game that was deadlocked time and time again, Peru's Circus City five edged out the Warriors to break North Side's win streak.

Came another hardwood fracas with the Reds reciprocating and doing a bit of win-streak breaking themselves. The unlucky foe—the Bulldogs from New Haven. With the Bulldogs leading for three quarters of the game, the Redskins put on a belated rally which enabled them to claim the 34 on a score board that read 34-33.

Another N. E. I. C. victory was gained when the Redskins closed the switches on Garrett's Railroaders. The final count was 42-21.

The Indians next traveled to Decatur, Illinois, where they experienced little difficulty in downing the Illinois State Champs 39-29.

In years to come, when mention is made of South Side's great 1938 State Championship team, the members of this year's Red squad can tuck their beards in their left vest pocket and say with pride that they were one of the two teams to conquer the Champion Archers. The score of the Northerners' second city series win was 31-27.

Next came another civic foe in the purple of Upper: Ed Boedeker passing the ball in Central-North Side tilt.

Lower: A mad scramble under North Side's basket in the first South Side game.

Central Catholic. The Warriors, fighting another up-hill battle in the last half, emerged victorious to the tune of 46-42.

Head-man Nulf used eleven Redskins to pin back the ears of the Airdales from Hartford City, 42-23.

With Golden reaping a golden harvest of 20 points, the Indians assured themselves of a piece of the City Title by again downing the off-year Central Tigers, 44-27.

Two points represented North's next margin of victory as a Red Devil rally fell short and Auburn City was conquered, 37-35.

Then the Indians stepped in front of a juggernaut that was just getting up steam which was to carry them to the State Championship. South 34, North 15. 'Nuff said.

Once again the Indians pulled one out of the fire in the last half at Columbia City. In the last 8 seconds of play, Hero Gunkler swished a fielder which beat the time-keeper's gun in a photo-finish, 41-39.

The Redskins next turned on the scoring power at Kendallville. Final score was 49-30. Cowan, a Frosh newcomer to the squad, made his debut in the big time by adding 11 points to the Red's total . . . nice debut.

Bluffton was the next to fall before the onslaught of the Warriors. North's final conference victory was chalked up at 35-26.

The feature of the Washington of South Bend encounter was Werling's guarding of Bogarus, one of the state's highest scorers. The South Bend flash was held to one point. The Reds played one of their best games of the season in defeating the highly touted Washingtonians, 47-24.

Huntington dropped the curtain (but definitely) on the regular season by upsetting the Redskins, 37-31.

Came the Sectional. Drawing a spot in the tough lower bracket, the Indians earned the right to enter second round play by virtue of a 29-19 victory over Leo. Here, in their second game, they had to extend themselves to take an overtime tilt from the Hoagland Wildcats, 42-37. The Warriors' title hopes were erased in the semi-final go in which they terminated their hardwood campaign by bowing out to the Centralians, 43-30.

Eighteen won, four lost. This impressive record enabled the Indians to share both the City and N. E. I. C. titles with South Side. The season was marked throughout by great school spirit on the part of the student body. This spirit plus the incomparable team play of the entire varsity squad gave to North Side the best season in its history.

CHAMBERSMEN WIND UP SUCCESSFUL SEASON

With the start of the tenth year of track and the first year of cross-country, prospects for track were fairly bright, but for cross-country were somewhat vague.

With about fifteen boys responding to the call for cross-country and none of them having had much experience, Coach Rolla Chambers' expectations for a successful season were far surpassed.

Opening the season against the Elkhart Blue Blazers, the Redskinned harriers received a setback for all their efforts. The next meet was also with the Blue Blazers, which was again lost by the narrowest of margins. In this meet, Ross Leakey smashed the state record for two miles of cross-country, running the distance in the very good time of two minutes and one second.

The next two meets the Chambersmen reversed the decisions, smashing through to overwhelming victories over the Culver Cadets.

The following two meets, however, were lost by close margins, to Hammond and Mishawaka high schools.

The week after the Mishawaka meet, Coach Rolla Chambers and his band of harriers took the trail to Muncie for a cross-country contest with practically all of the high schools in the state that had a cross-country team. This meet was generally regarded as the meet to determine the state championship cross-country team, but the I. H. S. A. A. board, busy with other matters, failed to recognize the meet as the official state championship meet.

With the first fifteen places only counting on the team score, the team of Redskinned harriers, led by Ross Leakey, who tied for first place over approximately one hundred boys, with Poulis of Technical of Indianapolis, came in ahead. All six of the North Side runners placed among the first fourteen runners, thus giving the Redskins the unofficial state cross-country team championship.

At the end of the cross-country season, the team elected Willet Draker captain of the team, and Coach Chambers awarded six letters to Willet Draker, captain, Ross Leakey, Don Kemp, Eugene Love, Jim Pavey, and Bob Winner.

With such successful cross-country, football, and basketball teams preceding them, the North Side track team had every anticipation of one of the most successful seasons ever enjoyed by a North Side track team.

Six-letter winners of last year's track squad returned to form a nucleus for the 1938 track team which opened its season against the frosh track team of Western State Normal College at Kalamazoo, Michigan. The inexperienced Red track team dropped this meet, as had been expected, but only after a stubborn battle.

The next meet to be participated in by the Redskins was a dual affair with the Hammond Wildcats in the Notre Dame fieldhouse on the Irish track. The Wildcats, who won the Gary relays the following week, copped the meet.

The next week the Redskins took part in the annual Gary Indoor relays and took second place behind the runners of Hammond. The North Siders, led by Don Ormiston, and the medley relay team, John Beams, Glenn Leazier, Norm Potts, and Gene Royer, amassed a total of thirty-five points to win second place. The only dark spot of the meet was the injury which occurred to Don Ormiston when he was spiked in the left ankle.

The week following the Gary Indoor the Chambersmen engaged in a dual meet with the Culver Military Academy and dropped a 68 to 56 decision to the Cadets. The Redskins were led by K. Green, who established a new Culver fieldhouse record in the 220-yard dash.

The next encounter of the Redskins was a four-way meet with Horace Mann of Gary, Hammond, Mishawaka, and North Side competing, at Mishawaka. The best the warriors could do was third against some of the stiffest competition in the state. This was the first outdoor meet of the year for the North Siders.

State Cross Country Champs

First Row: Bob Winner, Ross Leakey, Eugene Love.
Second Row: Don Kemp, Willet Draker, Jim Pavay.

The next meet was with the State-Champion Kokomo Wildcat team, and the Redskins finally won their first meet of the year, beating the Wildcats 67 to 56 in an interesting meet.

The following week the Chambersmen journeyed to the Muncie track where they engaged in the Muncie Relays. This meet found the Redskins a little off form, and their highest efforts, fourteen points, netted them fifth place in the final standing.

The next meet was the annual Kokomo Relays and the Redskins emerged from this meet, one of the most important of the year, in third place just two and one-half points behind the winner, Froebel of Gary.

Again displaying the power which has made them one of the state's strongest track teams, the Redskins ran seven foes ragged in the annual North Eastern Indiana Conference meet, piling up 78 5/6 points to finish far ahead of their nearest competitor, Garrett's Railroaders, who garnered 44 1/3 tallies. South Side ran third with Central, Kendallville, Columbia City, and Auburn finishing in that order. It was the second straight crown for the Northern thinly clad. Don Kemp was the outstanding individual performer as he jogged to a new mark in the 880-yard run, establishing a 2:00.1 time which bettered the former record of 2:02.3. Kemp, only a junior, undoubtedly will be one of the mainstays of next year's cinder path aggregation. Another boy who will be counted on for plenty of points in the distances next season is Ross Leakey, who captured the conference mile run, finishing about forty yards ahead of his nearest opponent. The Redskins also appeared impressive in winning both the relays.

Rolla Chambers meanwhile was looking ahead. Given plenty of assistance by Walter Hayes, former North Sider, Coach Chambers has been developing a well-balanced underclassman aggregation. Among the more outstanding underclassmen is Bob Cowan, a member of the varsity half-mile relay team and a promising 100-yard dash man. Cornelius Irvin is another good Frosh prospect. Ervin is an accomplished three-event man as he participates in the broad jump, the high jump, and the pole vault. Other tracksters who will return next year to form the nucleus of the 1939 Redskin aggregation are Sheldon Wagner, dash man; John Beams, hurdle expert; Ray Flickinger, another hurdle entry and a member of the present varsity half-mile relay team; K. Green, 100- and 220-yard dash speedster; Everett Huth, shot put prospect; Gene Royer, member of the present mile relay select four and a 440-yard dash man; and Ray Dotson in the pole vault.

THE RIFLE CLUB AND TEAM

Instead of shooting up the town, our Rifle Team prefers to shoot up a range target—and they have a habit of hitting the "bull's eye" too. Our North Side Rifle Club, which is affiliated with the National Rifle Association of America, started here at North Side with a total membership of nine boys. Now after eight years of hard work they boast a membership of sixty-nine students.

The Rifle Team composed of Burton Benninghoff, Eleanor Geiser, George Buckner, Victor Allwardt, Betty Belle McDonald, Donald Ross, Ruth Bachman, and Paul Baker emerged the victors in every match of the season. The club advisers, Mr. Hyrle Ivy, Mr. Eldon Schell-schmidt, and Miss Catherine Cleary, guided their proteges through their successful meets with Arcola, Elmhurst, South Side, Central, and the Fort Wayne Rifle Club. For their outstanding scores, members of the Rifle Team were given emblems by the school and medals by the Three Rivers Rifle Club.

Five of the eight members of the Rifle Team competed in the county match March 27. The five who constituted the team are Burton Benninghoff, Eleanor Geiser, George Buckner, Betty Belle McDonald, and Paul Baker with Burton the high scorer. He made 199 points out of a possible 200; Eleanor was close behind with 197 out of 200; and the others followed in the order named.

Our team, having gained permanent possession of the first Dickens Trophy two years ago by winning the county meet for three consecutive years, is now looking forward with a great deal of concern to gaining permanent possession of the new Dickens Trophy, since they already have won the county meet consecutively for two years and hope again to win the third match next year, thus qualifying for permanent possession and adding another "silver" to our imposing array in the trophy case.

At the beginning of the semester the Rifle Club, from which the aforementioned varsity team was selected, elected George Buckner as their president; Eleanor Geiser took next-top honors and was elected vice-president; Virginia Knox occupied the secretary's position; Burton Benninghoff, executive secretary; Paul Baker, range officer; and Betty Pressler, secretary. These positions were held for the duration of the school year.

Student Managers

The student managers of our boys' athletic department are seldom seen or thought of except when they tote the towel rack out to the "boys" during time-out periods. Yet their greater task is that of caring for football and basketball equipment. This job is intrusted to Clark Waterfall, Senior manager; James Haskins, Junior manager; Bob Tone, Sophomore manager; and Darrell Heaston, Freshman manager. Since Bob Tone goes out for football, he does not share in the management of football. The work of sewing up the track pants is successfully carried on by the fellow-seamstresses, George Williamson and James Johnson, track managers.

IT'S PLAYING YOUR BEST FOR THE TEAM, LASS

BY CHARLOTTE BICKEL AND ELEANOR SCHWARZ

Strange as it may seem, more girls actually take part in sports than in any other activity at North Side. Approximately 480 girls are enrolled in gym classes, 200 in swimming classes, while 275 girls turned out for after-school sports, and fifty attended swimming classes after school. For those girls who enjoy sports, the Girls Athletic Association, the largest and one of the most interesting clubs at North Side has been organized. Its principles—health, sportsmanship, and enjoyment—are carried out through its activities.

The capable executive board this year was made up of very "sportsminded" girls, headed by Charlotte Bickel, president. Other officers were Gertrude Jaehn, vice-president; Eleanor Schwarz, secretary-treasurer; Ruth Steward, point recorder; Milleder Miller, Marjorie Pratt, Dolly Didier, Helen Jones, Senior, Junior, Sophomore, Freshman representatives, respectively. The person who supervised all social activities and carried on an extensive athletic program was our popular faculty adviser, Miss Margaret Spiegel.

G. A. A. has many interesting social events in addition to its regular athletics. In September G. A. A. sponsored a party for "freshies" so that they might become acquainted with the club and its members. Millie Miller had charge of all the arrangements. The hayrack ride and treasure hunt, under the supervision of Phyl Zickgraf, was enjoyed by many of our outdoor girls.

The G. A. A. Vod-vil, outstanding social activity of the year, was given in November with Joan Hueber as general chairman. "Northern Hi-Lights" proved to be one of the most successful vod-vils ever attempted at North Side. Agnes Reid and Ruth Pierre were co-chairmen of the dance after the Vod-vil, while other general chairmen were Millie Miller, Ruth Wyatt, Gertrude Jaehn, and Eleanor Schwarz.

G. A. A. took the role of Santa Claus and entertained several little tots who, otherwise, would not have been paid a visit by Santa Claus, at the annual Christmas party which was in charge of Ruth Steward.

Next on the social calendar was the initiation and potluck, headed by Gerry Habig. After some forty girls had been "roughly" initiated into the organization, the members enjoyed a delicious "feed" and then attended the basketball game.

In February, the event which many girls had eagerly anticipated, the annual assembly, was given. At this assembly thirty-nine members became the proud owners of athletic awards. A posture parade, in which several members demonstrated the various incorrect postures and, finally, the correct posture, provided entertainment for the audience, and (we hope) served as a reminder to North Side girls to use the correct posture. Pamphlets, containing clever poems about Suzie Swayback, Hortense Hump, and other characters of incorrect postures were given to all girls by the Fort Wayne Milk Council. Charlotte Bickel was general chairman.

This year G. A. A. played hostess to Central and South Side lettergirls at its annual playday. After a full program of basketball, relays, challenges, and swimming, supper was eaten and clever skits given by all the schools. The general chairman for playday was Gertrude Jaehn.

Another initiation ceremony was held in April so that those girls who had missed the former initiation by a few points might become members and attend the banquet. Norma Barney and Lenore Hofer acted as co-chairmen.

Many dignified members lost their dignity at the skating party April 22, the plans of which were arranged by Laverne Herber.

The one event which the seniors had looked forward to with great pleasure was the annual banquet May 20. The banquet, given by the juniors, was headed by Eileen Aughinbaugh. The general chairmen were Virginia Steele, Betty Krausz, Mary Carkenord, and Bessie Levin. New officers were installed and awards were given at the banquet.

The closing social event of the year was the breakfast hike at Franke Park in June. Girls who had earned 100 points for membership were initiated and final awards given.

Two new features were introduced in the club this year. Many of the girls thought that a special day should be set aside for all who had won letters. An amendment was suggested and passed that the first Friday of each month be designated as Letter-day. The first Friday every girl wore her sweater and Letter-day was declared to be a great success.

In order to make the business meeting more interesting and profitable, forums under the leadership of certain members became a definite part of the program. These forums, on topics such as women in Olympics, the I. H. S. A. A., and girls' sports in foreign lands, gave those girls who had charge a more active part in the club and valuable experience in talking to large groups.

A scrapbook containing all clippings of G. A. A. events was also started. This book will be kept through the years as a permanent reference and

The Student Leaders, a club formed last year by Miss Spiegel, carried on its work further by assisting in refereeing the tennis games, and officiating in volleyball, basketball, and baseball games, after studying the rules of these games thoroughly. Games for recreational purposes were stressed at several of the meetings so that the girls would know how to explain and demonstrate various games. Track was also studied by the members.

In the fall thirty-nine would-be tennis champs came out for the tennis tournament. After many hard-fought games the class champions were decided—Dorothy Frie, Eleanor Houghton, Anita Fitch, and Millie Miller.

Volleyball, the favorite sport of many girls, came next. Eight teams, chosen from those girls who had attended all practices, played in the round-robin tournament. Class honor teams were then selected, and an honor tourney played off, in which the Senior team defeated the Juniors to be crowned volleyball champs of 1937.

Basketball proved very popular to the Frosh girls as well as upperclassmen. The tourney resulted in a triple tie among the Junior A team and both Senior teams. In the playoff, the Senior A team defeated the Juniors, and then won over the Senior B squad to take the honors.

Baseball practices were immediately started and drew a large attendance of home-run seekers. After spring vacation, a successful tournament was run off.

A month of hard practice for track, climaxed by a class track meet, ended the athletic program for the year.

Tumbling, a sport introduced this year, was met with much enthusiasm from the girls. The class was held on Fridays the fifth period and was attended by some thirty girls.

Swimming had a most successful year. The first aquatic event was the class meet in which LaVerne Herber, Marg Guethe, and Phyllis DeHaven starred. Then came the individual swimming meet, which was won by LaVerne. Right on her heels in competition were Phyllis DeHaven, Marg Guethe, and Betty Bauerle. Forty-four girls turned out for Red Cross life saving practice every Wednesday. Since last year's swimming pageant was such a success, "Showing Neptune," another pageant, was given this year in May.

G. A. A. has a definite point system for earning awards. A girl must earn 100 points either by making a class team, gaining 25 points for perfect attendance in gym class or receiving big "A" in posture test, or by various other methods to become a member of G. A. A. Numerals are then given for 300 points; blocked "N", 600 points; and winged "N", a coveted treasure, 1,000 points. The highest award a senior girl may receive is the honor of having her name engraved on a silver platter to signify that she has earned more points than any other girl in her class.

Upper laugh to lower riot: On your mark, get set, --whoosh! Packing for a little trip. Itchy-kitchy-koo? Neptune's neophytes. Two up and one to go, or what? California dew. Herber's swan. Hope they don't all start at once. Feetsball clinic. One of the Rockettes kicking. Tweet, hold it.

Upper left to lower right: Mad scramble in the old book store. Two stalwart athletes. How's the air up there, Lanky? Shambaugh striking up the band. What's the joke, Bob? Romantic setting, isn't it? Must be interesting. Naughty, naughty. Senior play cast takes a bow. Noon get-togethers. Four charming misses. Heap big Injun tent. Dignified seniors.
